Delaying Tactics Charged In Armory Purchase Move

Richard L. Gerhardt, promoting a movement to acquire the local National Guard Armory for use as a neighborhood civic center, today declared obstruction and delaying tactics are being utilized to jeopardize chances of securing the building.

Gerhardt, a local attorney, leveled the charge against W. Harold Clifton, president of council. His accusation came after a resolution concerning the proposed civic center was withdrawn from the clerk's desk during Tuesday night's council meeting.

The lawyer claimed Clifton was giving lip service to the neighborhood center and at the same time led the move that caused the resolution to be barred from discussion.

Both Clifton and Gerhardt are Democrat candidates for nomination as Circleville Mayor at the May 2 primary.

CLIFTON, in response to the charge, said the withdrawn resolution amounted to no more than a duplication of the motion approved by council on Mar. 21. He said the move to take the measure from the clerk's desk was recommended by three councilmen.

The council president further contended that the lawmaking body was in no position at this time to state how much money the city could earmark for Armory purchase purposes.

The city's cost share has been estimated at about $20,000. Clifton said there is no way at present to determine if Circleville has this kind of money available. He added that the resolution would have required an amount be specified.

Gerhardt made reference to the Mar. 21 council meeting in which the motion, by a unanimous show of hands vote, approved a motion to pursue the Armory purchase proposal and authorized preparation of legislation to this effect.

"This resolution was to have been acted on at last night's meeting to insure orderly and timely procedure necessary for the purchase," Gerhardt said.

Dormitory Fire Kills 9 at Cornell

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Eight students and a faculty adviser at Cornell University perished today and 10 persons were injured in a pre-dawn fire that heavily damaged a 15-year-old dormitory.

The dead students were six women and two men. The adviser was male. The injured, eight of them women students, suffered from smoke inhalation. None was considered in serious condition.

Scores of others escaped through windows and doors. Some evidently tried to use sheet ropes, and the sheets were left dangling.

The bodies, found in bedrooms, hallways and a lobby, were taken to a university morgue. They were not identified immediately.

One of the first policemen on the scene told reporters no fire was visible from the outside but "people were hanging out of all the windows."

University Provost Dale R. Corson said the two-story, cinder-block building, on the edge of the city, housed 71 persons. Of those, there were 31 boys and 12 girls from 18 states in the beginning class of a six-year experimental course for top-flight freshmen seeking doctorates.

These students, three faculty members and a senior counselor lived on the first floor and in the basement. Twenty-four graduate and senior women lived on the top floor.

Corson said three of the dead — two men and one woman — were in the freshman class. The other five students, all women, were seniors or graduate students at the university.

Corson scheduled a memorial service for 2 p.m., EST, Friday at Sage Chapel. He expressed the university's "shock and grief."

The cause of the fire was not determined. Firemen said it apparently broke out in the basement.

About 100 firemen fought the flames, discovered shortly after 4 a.m. Most of the damage was caused by smoke, the sheriff's office said.

The ground fire from the middle of the village was reported by the U.S. pilot flying wingman for the Thunderchief that was shot down. Repeated attempts were made to pick up the downed flier by helicopter, but all failed and he was listed as missing.

The surge of 5,557 Viet Cong defectors during March raised the total for 1967 to 10,746, or nearly double the rate last year, U.S. officials said. The number of "open arms" defectors in the first three months of last year was 5,521.

In the last week of March, up to last Saturday, 1,000 Viet Cong defected to the government side. Of these, U.S. officials said, 630 were Viet Cong soldiers, 301 were political cadre and 69 were "miscellaneous" Viet Cong adherents.

A spokesman for the U.S. mission reported that the total of Viet Cong defectors since the open arms campaign began in 1963 now stands at 58,970.

Skating Coliseum Leveled by Fire

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Fire raging out of control for 1½ hours in Mansfield early today leveled the North Lake Park Skating Coliseum with loss estimated by the owner at $500,000.

Harry Dennis, owner of the building who lives two houses away from the rink, in estimating the loss said he had very little insurance. Also destroyed were about 1,500 pairs of skates, an organ and five new motorcycles intended for rental this summer.

Contract Awarded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Northern Ohio Paving Co., Twinsburg, on a bid of $1,671,467, was awarded a contract by the Ohio Turnpike Commission for the Ohio Turnpike Commission Tuesday for repairing and resurfacing 12.5 miles of the toll road in the Elyria area.

Cancer Breakthrough?

Scientist Tracks Down Virus 'Fingerprints'

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A St. Louis scientist reported today he may have achieved an "exciting breakthrough" toward solving the riddle as to whether at least some human cancers are caused by viruses.

Dr. Maurice Green of St. Louis University said he had developed a technique for detecting cancer-virus "fingerprints" — in the absence of an intact virus itself — when applied to certain animal cancer tissues.

He said he is confident the technique can be used as the world's first direct test to determine whether one or more common disease viruses — such as those of the common cold, smallpox, chicken pox or warts — may also be among the causes of cancer.

He told about it in a report to a science writers' seminar sponsored by the American Cancer Society, and he amplified in an interview.

Green said the new virus-testing technique conceivably also could be applied to determining whether certain viruses occurring in animals — such as the SV40 (simian virus) of monkeys — play a role in causing human malignancies.

He gave this background: Apparent validity of the test was demonstrated by using cancer tissue from rodents in which cancers had been experimentally induced by infecting them with human adenoviruses.

These latter viruses — common causes of severe colds and other respiratory illness in man — were shown a few years ago to be the first human viruses known to be capable of producing cancer, at least in newborn rodents. But as yet there is no proof that any of some 31 known adenoviruses can cause cancer in man.

Green and his coworkers successfully demonstrated in the animal tests that a virus-induced cancer can be present even though the intact, whole virus cannot be detected in the cancer-suspect tissue. They could conclude this because they knew they were working with a known virus-induced cancer.

They found instead that the 6th Grader Is Injured In Explosion

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — "We turned the school into bedlam to get the ambulance," said a teacher describing the aftermath of an explosion which seriously injured a student.

The victim, Jeff Girard, 12, of nearby Sciotoville, suffered a mangled hand and body lacerations Tuesday.

Young Girard underwent surgery at Riverside Hospital in Columbus Tuesday night, and today his condition was reported as fair. He lost two fingers on his left hand, and suffered lacerations.

The explosion occurred in a Harding Avenue Elementary School classroom. Several students were injured slightly. Joyce Stevens, 12, Sciotoville, was treated for burns at a hospital here and released.

"He (Jeff) just went back and picked up one jar and it exploded," said Ralph Kisor, who was teaching the sixth grade science — physical fitness class at the time.

Apparently, somebody had put something in his chemicals," Kisor speculated.

The blast knocked many of the 25 students in the class to the floor. A blackboard cracked and several windows broke.

LBJ, RFK Again In Disagreement

Welfare Medical Abuses Studied

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, has called for further investigation after reviewing a government report indicating unusually large bills for doctors' services and drug purchases for public welfare patients in Cleveland.

The inquiry could spread elsewhere.

Moss, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on long term care of the aging, said the federal report on Cleveland nursing homes "brings to light the apparent existence of some very questionable practices."

Further examination is needed to see if Ohio or federal laws have been violated, Moss said in Washington Tuesday.

The report covers a study by the General Accounting Office at Moss' request after he had received a confidential report on a two-year study of nursing home care in Cleveland conducted by the Cleveland Welfare Federation.

He asked that a copy of the report be sent to each state's welfare director "as an investigatory guideline in seeking out what may be widespread abuse of the program by local physicians and practitioners, nursing homes and certain public officials."

He said he plans to sponsor legislation to require the states to adopt stringent controls for nursing home care under Social Security.

Among complaints in the report on Cleveland as cited by Moss were:

—Three pharmacies appear to be receiving the greatest share of the business.

—One physician was paid $1,486 for 487 visits to public Welfare patients in Cleveland area nursing homes in one month, including 90 on one day.

A podiatrist was paid for 300 visits to such patients in one month.

—In some cases, the level of care needed by a certain patient apparently was misstated.

Area Resident Indicted by Franklin Jury

Arle Anderson, 25, of Route 1, Williamsport, was indicted by the Franklin County Grand Jury Tuesday on charges of first degree murder and armed robbery.

Columbus Police have charged Anderson with the fatal shooting Mar. 11 of James Cappuccini, 33, during a grocery store robbery.

Anderson was arrested by the State Highway Patrol shortly after the shooting and burglary in Delaware. There was a .22 caliber revolver in his car, officers said.

A material witness being held in the case is Katherine Stevens 18, of Flint Mich. She was a passenger in Anderson's car.

Anderson, who lived near Darbyville, had been previously convicted of burglary, according to a record file maintained by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

LBJ Requests $800 Million Postal Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today for postal rate increases totaling $800 million and for a three-step pay increase of some $2.5 billion for all federal employees and members of the armed forces.

In a special message, Johnson recommended that the cost of mailing letters be increased by 1 cent. The charge for first-class mail would go to 6 cents and an air mail stamp would cost 9 cents.

The President also called for increases in all other postal rates.

Johnson proposed that the government's 2.5 million civilian employees, and members of the armed forces, be given an average pay increase of 4.5 percent effective Oct. 1.

In addition, he called for further increases on Oct. 1, 1968, and Oct. 1, 1969, for civilian workers.

so as to benefit the nursing home financially.

Moss said some patients evidently received as many as 18 separate drugs in a day.

"This suggests to me that these patients were not receiving the drugs for which payment was made," he said.

"Drugs were obtained for unauthorized use by other patients."

The report also criticized the Department of Health, Education and Welfare "for not providing its responsible field staff with specific instructions or guidelines for use in making continuing reviews of the state and local administration of nursing home care."

Post Office Claims Rails Delay Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department has fined nine railroads $127,500 since Jan. 1, charging them with delaying the mails, it was learned today.

The fines range from $2,500 against the Chicago & Eastern Illinois to $35,000 against the New York Central. The latest fine was $20,000 against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy.

A Post Office official said the fines were imposed after the department decided to "take a closer look at train schedules" in an effort to find out whether late arriving passenger trains were slowing mail deliveries.

The official was unable to say how the current fines compare with those imposed in past years because until Jan. 1 the railroads were fined by regional offices and records were not kept in Washington. The operation now is handled at Post Office headquarters.

Thirty-two railroad systems carry U.S. mail. Nearly all the mail the railroads carry is hauled on passenger trains.

Railroads have complained recently that the disappearance of passenger train service has been the fault of the Post Office.

Vet Wants Citizenship For His 100th Birthday

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An American who remained in Cuba after fighting the Spanish-American war—is trying to get his U.S. citizenship back. He would like it as a gift on his 100th birthday next week.

"This is my country, and I want to die as an American," said Charles L. Leuthold.

Leuthold's daughter, Frances, who cares for him, asked President Johnson to speed his citizenship. Ordinarily it takes five years to become a citizen.

Miss Leuthold wrote the President Tuesday: "Since he is old and feeble, I would like to ask you if citizenship could be restored in time for his 100th birthday, April 14. That would make him very happy."

Leuthold declared: "I'd go to Cuba again to help free the country a second time. I think the United States should send soldiers again. That man Castro and communism must go."

Kennedy Asks For Campaign Law's Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy again are clashing — this time over the White House-backed presidential election campaign financing law.

Kennedy called Tuesday for repeal of the law enacted by Congress last year, saying it would give "massive amounts of funds in a dangerous and unrestricted way to the national leadership of the two major political parties."

Although the New York Democrat named no names, his remarks seemed directed at least partially at Johnson — particularly since Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said Tuesday the White House "was calling all over the United States during the Easter recess" seeking votes to prevent repeal of the plan. Johnson had endorsed the plan last year.

The current law would provide up to $30 million to each major political party in 1968, with the money coming from income tax payments. It allows each taxpayer specifically to allot $1 of his income levy to a fund to be split between the parties.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., author of the measure, has suggested amending it this year to eliminate the taxpayer "check

Ohio Farmers Start Selling Dairy Cattle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A leader of the National Farmers Organization says Ohio members have sold about 650 head of dairy cattle to packers for slaughter in the past two days.

Most sales were viewed as "token" compliance with the NFO effort to get two cents more a quart from processors for their milk.

Paul Sullivan of West Jefferson, NFO chairman for Madison County, who made the estimate of Monday and Tuesday cattle sales, said he was not sure if the new strategy would continue.

"We are not selling those cows for spite," said Dick Fife, Clinton County NFO chairman. "We just can't afford to keep them. What they produce comes to less than our cost of production."

J. Franklin Michels of Maineville, Warren County, said "a lot of these boys spent 20 years building those herds. Most of them send two or three head — one long-time dairyman sold 10 of his 25 cows."

Slaughterhouses were reportedly paying the farmers about 17 cents per pound for the cows undressed.

The current law would provide up to $30 million to each major political party in 1968, with the money coming from income tax payments. It allows each taxpayer specifically to allot $1 of his income levy to a fund to be split between the parties.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., author of the measure, has suggested amending it this year to eliminate the taxpayer "check."

Ohio Farmers Start Selling Dairy Cattle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A leader of the National Farmers Organization says Ohio members have sold about 630 head of dairy cattle to packers for slaughter in the past two days.

Most sales were viewed as "token" compliance with the NFO effort to get two cents more a quart from processors for their milk.

Paul Sullivan of West Jefferson, NFO chairman for Madison County, who made the estimate of Monday and Tuesday cattle sales, said he was not sure if the new strategy would continue.

"We are not selling those cows for spite," said Dick Fife, Clinton County NFO chairman. "We just can't afford to keep them. What they produce comes to less than our cost of production."

J. Franklin Michels of Maineville, Warren County, said "a lot of these boys spent 20 years building those herds. Most of them send two or three head—one long-time dairyman sold 10 of his 25 cows."

Slaughterhouses were reportedly paying the farmers about 17 cents per pound for the cows undressed.

Cuba five years ago. Recently he was permitted to change his status from refugee to resident in three days. The process normally takes four months.

"There is no freedom in Cuba, that is why I left," said the slender white-haired man. "I'd like to go back, but not under communism."

Leuthold, born in Baar, Switzerland, came to the United States at the age of 2. He grew up in Tipton, Iowa, and operated a photo studio in Fort Worth, Tex. He enlisted in the Army in 1898 at the outbreak of the war that led to Cuban independence of Spain.

"I liked Cuba, the people, the climate, everything," he explained. "So I remained."

Leuthold married a Cuban and opened a photo studio in Cardenas, Matanzas. He became a Cuban citizen. His wife, Delores, died in 1958, a year before Fidel Castro's takeover.

Cong Desertion 5,557 in March

SAIGON (AP)—An all-time high of 5,557 Viet Cong deserted last month and came over to the allied side, U.S. officials announced today.

The record surge of defectors was nearly double the previous record of 2,917 Viet Cong who deserted in February under the South Vietnamese government's open arms program.

The mounting wave of enemy defections was announced as the ground war in South Vietnam simmered in small, scattered patrol clashes and bad weather returned to North Vietnam, curtailing U.S. air strikes after the heaviest raids in five months Monday.

U.S. and allied forces reported killing 75 of the enemy in scattered contacts Tuesday. Units of the South Korean Capital Division claimed 41 Viet Cong killed in the nine patrol skirmishes and said there were no Korean casualties.

In an unusual encounter, a two-man U.S. reconnaissance unit spotted and engaged about 10 Viet Cong troops who were acting as a screening force for a larger enemy unit of about 40 men. The two U.S. soldiers, with help from the rest of their patrol, killed nine Viet Cong in a surprise attack 33 miles southwest of the coastal city of Tuy Hoa, a U.S. spokesman said.

South Vietnamese forces reported killing 33 Viet Cong in four small contacts.

The U.S. Air Force charged that ground fire from the middle of a North Vietnamese village brought down an F105 Thunderchief Sunday. The loss of the plane, the 500th downed over North Vietnam in the war, had been announced Tuesday.

The followup Air Force announcement apparently was intended to show that the Communists position some of their anti-aircraft guns in the center of populated areas and that civilian casualties therefore cannot be avoided.

The ground fire from the middle of the village was reported by the U.S. pilot flying wingman for the Thunderchief that was shot down. Repeated attempts were made to pick up the downed flier by helicopter, but all failed and he was listed as missing.

The surge of 5,557 Viet Cong defectors during March raised the total for 1967 to 10,746, or nearly double the rate last year, U.S. officials said. The number of "open arms" defectors in the first three months of last year was 5,521.

In the last week of March, up to last Saturday, 1,000 Viet Cong defected to the government side. Of these, U.S. officials said, 630 were Viet Cong soldiers, 301 were political cadre and 69 were "miscellaneous" Viet Cong adherents.

A spokesman for the U.S. mission reported that the total of Viet Cong defectors since the open arms campaign began in 1963 now stands at 58,970.

Skating Coliseum Leveled by Fire

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Fire raging out of control for 1½ hours in Mansfield early today leveled the North Lake Park Skating Coliseum with loss estimated by the owner at $500,000.

Harry Dennis, owner of the building who lives two houses away from the rink, in estimating the loss said he had very little insurance. Also destroyed were about 1,500 pairs of skates, an organ and five new motorcycles intended for rental this summer.

Contract Awarded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Northern Ohio Paving Co., Twinsburg, on a bid of $1,671,467, was awarded a contract by the Ohio Turnpike Commission Tuesday for repaving and resurfacing 12.5 miles of the toll road in the Elyria area.

Witnesses Saw Speck in Bar

Say He Had Gun, Pocket Knife

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—The timetable of events surrounding the murder of eight nurses is becoming more dramatic as the prosecution strives to close the bridge between Richard Speck and the strangling of Pamela Wilkening, the first girl to die.

State witnesses testified Tuesday that the defendant was seen in a tavern with a gun and knife less than three hours before the slayings began. The tavern is two miles from the townhouse on Chicago's South Side where the victims lived.

Patrick Walsh, a laborer, told the jury of seven men and five women that he saw Speck flash a gun in a tavern about 8 p.m. July 13.

Walsh said he was seated in a booth of the Shipyard Inn when he noticed a man staring at him.

"I started to get out of the booth and he reached into his shirt and put something between his legs. I seen it was a gun," he said.

The witness said Speck apologized and invited him to have a drink which Walsh accepted. Walsh said he telephoned his fiancée to join him and when she arrived he introduced her to Speck.

"They left the inn about 10 p.m., Walsh said. Speck accompanied them outside, Walsh added, and said, "I'm sorry again about pulling the gun." Walsh introduced Speck to another friend, Army Sgt. Richard Oliva, home on leave.

Oliva testified that he was shooting pool in the tavern when Speck entered and took a position at the center of the bar. Oliva said he heard a noise from the direction where Speck was standing.

"I turned and saw him pick up a pocket knife and put it in his left-hand pocket," the soldier said. The knife was closed and Oliva estimated it to be three or four inches long.

Oliva said Speck asked him to shoot a game of pool but he said he declined and left the bar at about 10 p.m. The state contends Miss Wilkening was killed between 12:15 a.m. and 12:35 a.m. July 14. The state also charges that Speck entered the girls' dormitory at 11 p.m.

Escaped Con Apprehended After Holdup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A man identified by police as George Husey, 34, a West Virginia Penitentiary escapee, was taken into custody today less than 30 minutes after the hold-up of the Scioto Savings and Loan Co. office in downtown Columbus.

The arrest followed a chase to the near north side in a taxicab the man allegedly commandeered.

Police said a man had fled the bank after getting "more than $200" from the office, going to the Greyhound bus station a few blocks away.

There, they said, he was about to board a bus when he saw some police officers approaching, whereupon he pulled a gun and commandeered a nearby taxicab.

The taxicab driver, Eugene McGuire, 39, said he had been parked at the Greyhound terminal when a man jumped in the rear seat of his cab. The passenger did not display a gun, he said, but said he wanted to go to 5th Avenue and High Street.

During the ride, the Safety Cab Co. dispatcher had told all cabs that a wanted man was apparently in a taxi.

"I knew the guy I had was the man," McGuire said, "but I pretended I didn't hear the message. In fact, I didn't even want to try to look at him in the mirror." When the man got out of the cab McGuire notified the dispatcher who called the police.

from the beginning of our adventure in Vietnam."

The winner of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize pictured the United States Tuesday as so dedicated to its worldwide money and material investments that it has become "the greatest purveyor of violence in the world today," and is on the wrong side of a world revolution for human rights.

"Now they languish under our bombs," he said of the South Vietnamese, "and consider us — not their fellow Vietnamese — the real enemy. They move sadly and apathetically as we herd them off the land of their fathers into concentration camps where minimal social needs are rarely met. So far we may have killed a million of them, mostly children."

King's first recommendation, delivered at a news conference, was for "those who are prepared to do it, who see the great dangers ahead for mankind," to become conscientious objectors.

Novel Plans To Remain In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gordon Novel, freed under $10,000 bond Tuesday after nearly three days in jail on a fugitive warrant from Louisiana, says he plans to remain in the Columbus area indefinitely.

Police said Tuesday night that Novel, 29, sought as a material witness in a New Orleans inquiry into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, is free to come and go as he pleases, so long as he is present for any scheduled court proceedings.

As 50 to 60 newsmen and spectators watched him post bond, the former night club operator repeated his earlier statement that he once worked for Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison, who is conducting the investigation.

"He knows... asks him," Novel said when asked how long he was employed by Garrison. "My code name was Alexander and electronics was my field."

He said earlier he once was chief of the district attorney's security section.

His Columbus attorney, Jerry Weiner, stopped him from saying more.

Congress Fights Over Resolution On Latin Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan battle over President Johnson's proposed Latin American aid resolution is under way in the Senate, with a Republican spearheading a drive to rescue the measure.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., introduced legislation Tuesday night to restore the resolution to a form nearly identical to that sought by Johnson and already passed by the House.

His move came shortly after assistant Democratic Leader Russell B. Long of Louisiana suggested it might be wise to "just sidetrack" the resolution. Long's position was endorsed by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen. Cooper's stance drew support from Sens. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

In the evening, before more than 3,000 persons in the Riverside church, he called for clergymen to give up their draft-exemption as clergy and become conscientious objectors.

He also suggested a five-point program designed to "begin the long and difficult process of extricating ourselves from this night-marish conflict."

—End all bombing in Vietnam.

—Declare a unilateral ceasefire "in the hope that such action will create the atmosphere for negotiation."

—Curtail U.S. military build-ups in Thailand and Laos.

—Accept a role for the National Liberation Front — Viet Cong — in negotiations and in any future government, because it "has substantial support in South Vietnam."

—Set a date for removing all foreign troops in accord with the 1954 Geneva agreement.

In his hour-long address, sponsored by the Clergy and Laymen concerned about Vietnam, King said the civil rights and peace programs were inextricably linked in his mind. He said the war on poverty, a "shining moment" of a few years ago, had been "broken and eviscerated" by the war buildup.

King got standing ovations, at the beginning and at the end of his talk. He was picked up by about two dozen members of a Queens Negro organization that insisted the two causes should not be tied together.

Chicago Returns Daley to Office

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago voters handed their three-term Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley another four-year lease on his City Hall suite in Tuesday's election, but whittled his City Council majority.

Daley, 64, received 789,163 votes to 272,955 for Republican John L. Wanner in a turnout of about 65 per cent of the city's 1,772,610 voters.

Daley received 72.84 per cent of the votes, but there was a slight increase in the opposition minority of the 50-man City Council.

Ashbrook Says No To Bond Commission

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Refusal of U.S. Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, to endorse Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposed bond commission was hailed Tuesday as a direct affront to the state administration.

"The best vote-getting conservative Republican in Ohio has broken openly with the Rhodes administration," said Eugene P. O'Grady, executive director of the state Democratic party.

Franciscan Nuns Turn over Hospital

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Franciscan Sisters of the Poor are turning over their Margaret Mary Hospital at Batesville, Ind., to a newly organized citizens' corporation.

Mother Mary Julian, S.F.P., provincial superior, noted Tuesday the order had announced last December it would be forced to close the 35-year-old hospital in two years. She said the 55-bed facility and its equipment now will be turned over by July to the nonprofit corporation with members in several southeastern Indiana counties. Batesville is about 35 miles northwest of here.

Delaying....

He added that all possible speed is needed in order to apply for federal grants and for sake of the state's need to finalize plans for sale of the Armory.

Gerhardt accused Clifton of attempting to destroy Council's bi-partisan support of the civic center proposal and making it a political football. He said he had drawn up the plan to purchase the Armory only as an interested and civic minded citizen when it seemed that no one would assume the responsibility for formulating a plan to acquire the building.

HE ADDED that due to such delaying tactics, it will make it harder to properly complete and file necessary papers for federal assistance and may cause a time problem in getting approval of the grant in time.

"The necessary action from Council called only for a formal resolution regardless of the amount specified as the city share, and would not bind Circleville until the city had actually acquired and accepted the federal grant," Gerhardt asserted.

The local attorney declared that despite the setback, he and members of a citizens committee who have volunteered to help draft the proposed grant paper will proceed with renewed vigor to bring about acquisition of the Armory.

In other business, the solons passed an ordinance prohibiting the storage of materials of various nature on lots in the city, except under specific conditions. The measure refers to building materials, unlicensed motor vehicles, scrap metal, refuse and rubbish.

The ordinance, one of several approved by the city health board as a move to improve standards, also sets the penalty for violation of the measure. The fine to be imposed will be no less than $10 nor more than $50 for each separate offense.

Councilmen also authorized the board of public utilities to advertise for bids to purchase a new sewer rodding machine. The equipment now on hand is considered beyond repair.

Terrorism Of Viet Cong Increasing

SAIGON (AP) — Terrorism to sabotage South Vietnam's transition to civilian government is increasing.

Political candidates, members of the Constituent Assembly which wrote South Vietnam's new constitution, and other civilians are the targets. Police informants say the terrorism is being fomented by feuding political factions as well as by the Communists.

Grenades concealed in cake boxes with threatening letters were found Tuesday in the homes of two members of the Constituent Assembly. The new constitution went into effect Saturday. The assemblymen are scheduled to start writing election laws Thursday.

An elected civilian administration is supposed to replace the military regime after voting Sept. 1 and Oct. 1.

At least four candidates in local council elections which started Sunday have been killed and 10 have been kidnapped. Many others have been threatened. The Communists have made mortar and grenade attacks on polling places.

One political party, the Vietnam Quoc Dan Dang, urged its members not to be candidates because they might attract Communist reprisals.

More than 85 per cent of the registered voters, however, cast ballots in the 219 villages that voted Sunday. Voting continues for four more Sundays.

The political community was shaken by the shooting March 27 of a well-known politician, Nguyen Ngoc An, 51. Police sources said he was attacked by four men near Tay Ninh City, northwest of Saigon. He was wounded seriously.

Some sources said privately he was shot to intimidate civilian opponents of the military regime, which is dominated by refugees from North Vietnam. An was active in promoting the presidential candidacy of former Premier Tran Van Huong, a leading southern politician.

Tran Van Van, a member of the Constituent Assembly and an outspoken critic of the ruling military junta, was murdered in Saigon Dec. 7. A youth described by police as a Viet Cong assassin was convicted of the slaying, but Van's widow charged that her husband's enemies in the government were responsible.

Terrorism not directly related to politics also appears on the increase.

Viet Cong raiders destroyed a police post on the western edge of Saigon Tuesday night, killing 9 persons and wounding 12.

Official figures report 40 persons were killed, 102 were wounded and 103 were abducted throughout the country by terrorists last week.

Pipe Organ Is Studied By Elementary Students

A culmination of (music study) for elementary grades one and three regular educational facilities ended with a tour to St. Philip's Church on Mound St.

Paul Dunkle, music teacher for city school children in grades one through five feels most children do not have a true understanding of music because of the lack of exposure to instruments and the concept of music in general.

Dunkle stated "This is a new approach in the elementary vocal music program which I feel necessary, many students have never come in contact with a real pipe organ, and very few will ever see the insides of the instrument."

First and third grade students were taken to observe the pipe organ at St. Philip's Church.

A demonstration was given of how the pipe organ is played and how many sound combinations are possible to produce from the instrument.

Post Office

mail from the trains and transferring it to trucks. The lines say that revenue from mail often means the difference between profit and loss in the operation of some passenger trains.

But the Post Office says the railroads have discontinued passenger trains, leaving it no alternative but to use highway transportation for mail. The department charges that the railroads in many cases have asked the Post Office to remove mail from trains.

Other fines levied since January are: Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, $10,000; Louisville & Nashville, $5,000; Missouri Pacific $15,000; Norfolk & Western, $10,000; St. Louis-San Francisco, $5,000, and Southern Pacific, $25,000.

The department has the power to impose fines against railroads when mail - carrying trains do not meet their posted schedules. The department considers a train late when it is 15 or more minutes tardy.

In the Burlington case, the Post Office notified the line Feb. 10 that its trains had been arriving late for several months and that if the record did not improve within the next four weeks, a fine would be imposed.

The department then made a survey which showed that 21 of 58 Burlington trains carrying mail arrived late an average of 54 per cent of the time. The other 37 were late 11 per cent of the time.

Stock Market Holds Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market held a gain early this afternoon, with gainers outnumbering losers about two-to-one. Trading was fairly active.

The market was higher from the start even though the background of news contained nothing likely to stimulate prices. The list held its gain and appeared to be making a better showing over-all than the blue chips in the popular averages.

The Dow Jones Industrial average at noon was up 2.34 at 861.53, a moderate improvement which lifted the average a bit above the heralded support level of 860.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 318.8 with industrials up 1.1, rails unchanged and utilities up .9.

Democratic candidates for city offices will be introduced. The meeting is open to the public.

off" system and substitute direct $30-million federal appropriations to the major parties.

But Gore is leading a drive to repeal the measure altogether. He is trying to tack his repealer amendment onto a bill restoring tax breaks to business.

Kennedy, attacking Long's proposed amendment as "a monster," said "it could lead to destruction of our local political parties and their domination from Washington."

He suggested national leaders could withhold funds generated by the measure from states whose leadership refused to deliver delegates at the national conventions.

Long insisted that anyone using the tactics Kennedy feared "would end up in the penitentiary."

Further spotlighting Kennedy's clash with the administration was a letter to Long urging defeat of Gore's move and signed by Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler.

As the Senate headed for a possible showdown today on the campaign financing issue, the House Foreign Affairs Committee opened its hearings on Johnson's request for $3.1 billion in foreign aid for the year beginning July 1.

Some committee members predicted the President's aid package — a controversial item any year — would get a particularly rough going-over from this year's economy-minded Congress.

Johnson's hopes for a congressional resolution pledging future U.S. aid to Latin America remained in precarious shape in the Senate, with Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and Sen. Long suggesting it might be wise to sidetrack the measure.

Delaying....

He added that all possible speed is needed in order to apply for federal grants and for sake of the state's need to finalize plans for sale of the Armory.

Gerhardt accused Clifton of attempting to destroy Council's bi-partisan support of the civic center proposal and making it a political football. He said he had drawn up the plan to purchase the Armory only as an interested and civic minded citizen when it seemed that no one would assume the responsibility for formulating a plan to acquire the building.

HE ADDED that due to such delaying tactics, it will make it harder to properly complete and file necessary papers for federal assistance and may cause a time problem in getting approval of the grant in time.

"The necessary action from Council called only for a formal resolution regardless of the amount specified as the city share, and would not bind Circleville until the city had actually acquired and accepted the federal grant," Gerhardt asserted.

The local attorney declared that despite the setback, he and members of a citizens committee who have volunteered to help draft the proposed grant paper will proceed with renewed vigor to bring about acquisition of the Armory.

In other business, the solons passed an ordinance prohibiting the storage of materials of various nature on lots in the city, except under specific conditions. The measure refers to building materials, unlicensed motor vehicles, scrap metal, refuse and rubbish.

The ordinance, one of several approved by the city health board as a move to improve standards, also sets the penalty for violation of the measure. The fine to be imposed will be no less than $10 nor more than $50 for each separate offense.

Councilmen also authorized the board of public utilities to advertise for bids to purchase a new sewer rodding machine. The equipment now on hand is considered beyond repair.

Terrorism Of Viet Cong Increasing

SAIGON (AP) — Terrorism to sabotage South Vietnam's transition to civilian government is increasing.

Political candidates, members of the Constituent Assembly which wrote South Vietnam's new constitution, and other civilians are the targets. Police informants say the terrorism is being fomented by feuding political factions as well as by the Communists.

Grenades concealed in cake boxes with threatening letters were found Tuesday in the homes of two members of the Constituent Assembly. The new constitution went into effect Saturday. The assemblymen are scheduled to start writing election laws Thursday.

An elected civilian administration is supposed to replace the military regime after voting Sept. 1 and Oct. 1.

At least four candidates in local council elections which started Sunday have been killed and 10 have been kidnapped. Many others have been threatened. The Communists have made mortar and grenade attacks on polling places.

One political party, the Vietnam Quoc Dan Dang, urged its members not to be candidates because they might attract Communist reprisals.

More than 85 per cent of the registered voters, however, cast ballots in the 219 villages that voted Sunday. Voting continues for four more Sundays.

The political community was shaken by the shooting March 27 of a well-known politician, Nguyen Ngoc An, 61. Police sources said he was attacked by four men near Tay Ninh City, northwest of Saigon. He was wounded seriously.

Some sources said privately he was shot to intimidate civilian opponents of the military regime, which is dominated by refugees from North Vietnam. An was active in promoting the presidential candidacy of former Premier Tran Van Huong, a leading southern politician.

Tran Van Van, a member of the Constituent Assembly and an outspoken critic of the ruling military junta, was murdered in Saigon Dec. 7. A youth described by police as a Viet Cong assassin was convicted of the slaying, but Van's widow charged that her husband's enemies in the government were responsible.

Terrorism not directly related to politics also appears on the increase.

Viet Cong raiders destroyed a police post on the western edge of Saigon Tuesday night, killing 9 persons and wounding 12. Official figures report 40 persons were killed, 102 were wounded and 103 were abducted throughout the country by terrorists last week.

Chicago Returns Daley to Office

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago voters handed their three-term Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley another four-year lease on his City Hall suite in Tuesday's election, but whittled his City Council majority.

Daley, 64, received 789,163 votes to 272,955 for Republican John L. Wanner in a turnout of about 65 per cent of the city's 1,772,610 voters.

Daley received 72.84 per cent of the votes, but there was a slight increase in the opposition minority of the 50-man City Council.

Ashbrook Says No To Bond Commission

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Refusal of U.S. Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, to endorse Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposed bond commission was hailed Tuesday as a direct affront to the state administration.

"The best vote-getting conservative Republican in Ohio has broken openly with the Rhodes administration," said Eugene P. O'Grady, executive director of the state Democratic party.

Franciscan Nuns Turn over Hospital

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Franciscan Sisters of the Poor are turning over their Margaret Mary Hospital at Batesville, Ind., to a newly organized citizens' corporation.

Mother Mary Julian, S.F.P., provincial superior, noted Tuesday the order had announced last December it would be forced to close the 35-year-old hospital in two years. She said the 55-bed facility and its equipment now will be turned over by July to the nonprofit corporation with members in several southeastern Indiana counties. Batesville is about 35 miles northwest of here.

Escaped Con Apprehended After Holdup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A man identified by police as George Hosey, 34, a West Virginia Penitentiary escapee, was taken into custody today less than 30 minutes after the hold-up of the Scioto Savings and Loan Co. office in downtown Columbus.

The arrest followed a chase to the near north side in a taxicab the man allegedly commandeered.

Police said a man had fled the bank after getting "more than $200" from the office, going to the Greyhound bus station a few blocks away.

There, they said, he was about to board a bus when he saw some police officers approaching, whereupon he pulled a gun and commandeered a nearby taxicab.

The taxicab driver, Eugene McGuire, 39, said he had been parked at the Greyhound terminal when a man jumped in the rear seat of his cab. The passenger did not display a gun, he said, but said he wanted to go to 5th Avenue and High Street.

During the ride, the Safety Cab Co. dispatcher had told all cabs that a wanted man was apparently in a taxi.

"I knew the guy I had was the man," McGuire said, "but I pretended I didn't hear the message. In fact, I didn't even want to try to look at him in the mirror." When the man got out of the cab McGuire notified the dispatcher who called the police.

from the beginning of our adventure in Vietnam."

The winner of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize pictured the United States Tuesday as so dedicated to its worldwide money and material investments that it has become "the greatest purveyor of violence in the world today," and is on the wrong side of a world revolution for human rights.

"Now they languish under our bombs," he said of the South Vietnamese, "and consider us — not their fellow Vietnamese — the real enemy. They move sadly and apathetically as we herd them off the land of their fathers into concentration camps where minimal social needs are rarely met. So far we may have killed a million of them, mostly children."

King's first recommendation, delivered at a news conference, was for "those who are prepared to do it, who see the great dangers ahead for mankind," to become conscientious objectors.

Novel Plans To Remain In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gordon Novel, freed under $10,000 bond Tuesday after nearly three days in jail on a fugitive warrant from Louisiana, says he plans to remain in the Columbus area indefinitely.

Police said Tuesday night that Novel, 29, sought as a material witness in a New Orleans inquiry into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, is free to come and go as he pleases, so long as he is present for any scheduled court proceedings.

As 50 to 60 newsmen and spectators watched him post bond, the former night club operator repeated his earlier statement that he once worked for Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison, who is conducting the investigation.

"He knows... asks him," Novel said when asked how long he was employed by Garrison. "My code name was Alexander and electronics was my field." He said earlier he once was chief of the district attorney's security section.

His Columbus attorney, Jerry Weiner, stopped him from saying more.

Congress Fights Over Resolution On Latin Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bi-partisan battle over President Johnson's proposed Latin-American aid resolution is under way in the Senate, with a Republican spearheading a drive to rescue the measure.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., introduced legislation Tuesday night to restore the resolution to a form nearly identical to that sought by Johnson and already passed by the House.

His move came shortly after assistant Democratic Leader Russell B. Long of Louisiana suggested it might be wise to "just sidetrack" the resolution. Long's position was endorsed by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen. Cooper's stance drew support from Sens. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

In the evening, before more than 3,000 persons in the Riverside church, he called for clergymen to give up their draft-exemption as clergy and become conscientious objectors.

He also suggested a five-point program designed to "begin the long and difficult process of extricating ourselves from this night-marish conflict."

—End all bombing in Vietnam.

—Declare a unilateral cease-fire "in the hope that such action will create the atmosphere for negotiation."

—Curtail U.S. military build-ups in Thailand and Laos.

—Accept a role for the National Liberation Front — Viet Cong — in negotiations and in any future government, because it "has substantial support in South Vietnam."

—Set a date for removing all foreign troops in accord with the 1954 Geneva agreement.

In his hour-long address, sponsored by the Clergy and Laymen concerned about Vietnam, King said the civil rights and peace programs were inextricably linked in his mind. He said the war on poverty, a "shining moment" of a few years ago, had been "broken and eviscerated" by the war buildup.

King got standing ovations, at the beginning and at the end of his talk. He was picketed by about two dozen members of a Queens Negro organization that insisted the two causes should not be tied together.

Pipe Organ Is Studied By Elementary Students

A culmination of (music study) for elementary grades one and three regular educational facilities ended with a tour to St. Philip's Church on Mound St.

Paul Dunkle, music teacher for city school children in grades one through five feels most children do not have a true understanding of music because of the lack of exposure to instruments and the concept of music in general.

Dunkle stated "This is a new approach in the elementary vocal music program which I feel necessary, many students have never come in contact with a real pipe organ, and very few will ever see the insides of the instrument."

First and third grade students were taken to observe the pipe organ at St. Philip's Church.

A demonstration was given of how the pipe organ is played and how many sound combinations are possible to produce from the instrument.

mail from the trains and transferring it to trucks. The lines say that revenue from mail often means the difference between profit and loss in the operation of some passenger trains.

But the Post Office says the railroads have discontinued passenger trains, leaving it no alternative but to use highway transportation for mail. The department charges that the railroads in many cases have asked the Post Office to remove mail from trains.

Other lines levied since January are: Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, $10,000; Louisville & Nashville, $5,000; Missouri Pacific $15,000; Norfolk & Western, $10,000; St. Louis-San Francisco, $5,000, and Southern Pacific, $25,000.

The department has the power to impose fines against railroads when mail - carrying trains do not meet their posted schedules. The department considers a train late when it is 15 or more minutes tardy.

In the Burlington case, the Post Office notified the line Feb. 10 that its trains had been arriving late for several months and that if the record did not improve within the next four weeks, a fine would be imposed.

The department then made a survey which showed that 21 of 58 Burlington trains carrying mail arrived late an average of 54 per cent of the time. The other 37 were late 11 per cent of the time.

Some Aren't Caught

Another scandalous cheating episode at the United States Air Force Academy proves again that in the society of today almost anything goes in the search for excellence.

Terrible pressures undoubtedly induced these young cadets to cheat. Success to them was all important — they had to prove to their families and friends that they were "winners."

It is significant that many of the cheaters were athletes. These unfortunate young men not only had to succeed on the playing fields but they had to pass the same rigid classroom standards as other cadets. The grind for many of them was too much—they couldn't have it both ways.

Cheating can never be condoned, of course, even though thousands of adults think nothing of swindling the government as often as they can get away with it. As a result, more than 50 cadets have resigned under the strict code of honor stressed at all U.S. military academies. They were caught — so they suffered.

The system itself has been found wanting, however, but will it suffer? Hardly. You've got to be tops in the world, boy, or you're nothing. Get with it, be a swinger keep your cool, and end up with a two-car garage.

Redheads Not Extinct

Who says redheads are dressed up with no place to go? Fiery-tempered they may be, and not as popular as blondes (you know why), but they have not gone underground to dye with shame.

True enough, Greer Garson and Ginger Rogers are nearer 60 than 50, and so is Lucy Ball (and she's only a comedienne), but readheads aren't extinct. This can be said with confidence, even though not many of them are seen around anymore, because of the results of an advertisement by a factory in Berlin, Germany, for enough redheads to meet its requirements for hygrometers.

After an appeal for red hair, used in the moisture-detecting instruments because it is the most sensitive (that explains the temper), the factory received enough hair to meet it needs for at least five years.

Who will ever be able to say that all German frauleins are blonde now that so much red hair has been rooted out?

Jumping Credibility Gaps

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Nine out of 10 millionaires explain their success by saying that it was the result of their own hard work. The 10th will admit that luck played an equal role.

One of the most popular performers in show business must be Lauren Bacall, better known as "Betty." You never hear anyone say of her, "She's a nice girl, but —"

He feels like he's still a junior executive until he starts keeping stomach pills in his desk drawer and his doctor promotes him by telling him he is an incipient ulcer case.

One way to solve the problem created by skyscraper-tall players in basketball might be to lower the baskets to a height only four feet from the floor. The game would then be no more ridiculous than it is now.

Nothing disturbs a woman more than to lose her bag. Who steals a man's purse steals merely trash, but who steals a woman's purse steals the whole junkyard of her existence.

The two forms of life in Manhattan that are in greatest public disapproval now seem to be taxicab drivers and pigeons. People complain there are too few of the one and too many of the other.

Whenever I see a young girl or an old lady reading an astrology book on the subway, I have the feeling that 5,000 years of civilization have gone down the drain of time.

Guys whose trousers first show signs of fraying at the right-hand pocket are usually pretty generous joes.

If husbands knew what their wives' hairdressers know, the number of marriages that go on the rocks would double overnight. On the other hand, if wives knew what their husbands' barbers know, it wouldn't make any difference whatsoever.

A really gracious woman is one who behaves at a crowded department store sale just as she would if she were receiving unexpected visitors at home.

One of the things grownups secretly envy children most is the thrill they get out of riding up and down on an escalator. If a woman takes the trouble to pluck a piece of lint off a fellow's coat jacket, he can be sure she likes him. Women don't touch things they dislike unless they have to.

If God had been a committee, He'd never have been able to make the world in six days.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — Pope Paul's encyclical on the development of peoples, though it contained some pointed criticisms of capitalism, has evoked very little public reaction from American business interests.

If some of these same criticisms had been made from within the country, a pained and predictable roar would have been heard. In the past, at least, this has been the response to criticism from certain elements.

The present silence could be for several reasons: out of courtesy to the Pope, out of fear of controversy, out of lack of concern, but of necessity to assimilate the material before reacting.

The most likely reason is the last named. Although obviously critical of capitalism, the encyclical also is critical of communism. People used to criticism of one or the other will be unfused, for this encyclical is a critique of many institutions.

In some respects the ideals of humanism espoused in the encyclical, Populorum Progressio, are the same as those held dear by Americans: that each man is the principal agent of his success or failure.

But, the observation that private property does not constitute "for anyone an absolute and unconditioned right" might be construed as inimical to those who equate property with freedom.

Even in specifics, capitalists are going to find criticism mixed with what they will consider to be a support of their views. An example came this week.

The Pope, in discussing the disturbing and explosive reality of the rich nations becoming richer and the poor poorer, suggested that free trade itself might be contributing to this and suggested price regulation.

This was followed by a recommendation from a committee of businessmen that the United States apply preferential tariffs to help less developed nations, a proposal very similar to that made by the Pope.

But, some adherents of capitalism are going to find it difficult to assimilate the Pope's view that it is "unfortunate" that industrialization has been accompanied by a system which "considers profit as the key motive for economic progress, competition as the supreme law of economics, and private ownership of the means of production as an absolute right."

These views are, indeed, widely held in the Western world and will find ardent defenders on principle. But, few enlighten capitalists will admit they believe in the concluding thought of that sentence:

"As an absolute right that has no limits and carries no corresponding social obligation."

Though irresponsible capitalism is not unknown in American history, most American businessmen today would argue that, as far as they are concerned, it is a thing of the past, if not in fact, then in ideal.

They would argue further that the recent history of capitalism in American has been one of increasing social responsibility, admittedly sometimes through the force of government regulation, and that irresponsible capitalism would be as much a danger to this nation as any other "ism."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

TWO FEMININE adornments to a fashionable night club show in Las Vegas were chatting about a mutual acquaintance. "You should have seen her antics when I met her on the Strip yesterday," chuckled one. "She was terrified that I wouldn't notice her new engagement ring." "Did you?" asked the other. "DID I," replied the first. "I not only noticed it. I RECOGNIZED it!"

Note to serious students of football strategy: Tommy Prothro, coach of the UCLA eleven, and staunch advocate of not always waiting until fourth down to punt, asserts that on 127 occasions in the 1966 season his opponents found themselves with eight yards or more to go on third down and failed to make it on all but 17 occasions. The advantage, on the other hand, for teams that occasionally quick-kick, points out Prothro, is that "they gain an average of six yards per play more, since the opponent doesn't dare rush too hard."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. GOLDFMAN, M.D.

Is it worthwhile to move to a warm, dry climate for arthritis or a sinus infection?

Patients with rheumatism, arthritis and infections of the sinuses consistently say that they feel better in a warm, dry climate. Obviously climate is not the only factor in the control or cure of these diseases. If it were then none of these conditions would ever be found in Tucson, Arizona, or in any of the other parts of the country known for this type of climate.

Some patients of mine have been so enthusiastic about warm temperatures that they have moved their homes and businesses and permanently settled down and enjoyed it.

All of us in the practice of medicine have known people who completely uprooted themselves and relocated their families from schools, friends and businesses only to come to the unhappy realization that the move was a mistake. The benefits they sought did not materialize and only emphasized their error in moving.

In general it is a wise idea for people with chronic arthritis or sinusitis to take a long trial period in a new climate before making and abrupt change. The move is expensive and can be psychologically distressing if the good health and comfort they expected does not come true.

The enthusiasm of the local chamber of commerce must not be used as the only index to such an important step. They, too, recommend that people come and stay with them and feel the benefits before making a positive move.

Is there a medical specialty called cancer diagnostician or cancer surgeon?

This is a mistaken idea. There are not doctors who specialize in the diagnosis of cancer and there are no surgeons who are called as cancer specialists. All physicians when they examine accumulate as much evidence as they can before coming to a conclusion or making a diagnosis.

A general examination followed by blood studies and X-rays indicate the need for more intensive specialized workup. If any indecision or confusion exists a doctor may suggest a consultation with another physician who may have a special interest in a particular problem. All surgeons in all specialties operate on cancers in their field. For example, a general surgeon will operate on a cancer of the stomach or intestines. He will also remove gall-bladders and do appendectomies and all other operations within the limits of his capabilities.

A throat surgeon will remove a cancer of the larynx as part of his own specialty. A urological surgeon will do all the operations in his field and also a cancer of the prostate if it occurs.

There are some super specialists who have devoted themselves to very unique types of operations. They may be called in for a particularly difficult problem. Heart surgery, for example, would be in this category. There are, however, no doctors who can be called as cancer specialists.

Repeated styes of the eyelids may be the result of a local infection or even a general run-down condition.

Easter greeting cards were first published in England in the late 19th century. One of the earliest is a silk-fringed Bavarian lithograph of Christ reassuring Mary at the tomb. This rare Easter card is one of 70,000 antique cards in the Hallmark Historical Collection, largest collection of historic greeting cards in the world.

Nixon in New Home State

By John Chamberlain

Barry Goldwater is one of those compulsive truth-tellers. He did Richard Nixon, his own preference for the Republican Presidential nomination, a bad turn when, in that Saturday Evening Post interview, he remarked that it would be hard to eradicate the idea that Nixon "can't be elected."

But the bad turn could, paradoxically, be transmuted into a good turn if it only moves Nixon to fight for the nomination with everything he's got. The test of Nixon's will-to-win may very well be in his own New York State, where Republican conservatives are trying to tell him that no Presidential aspirant has a chance of obtaining the nomination without at least some delegate support in his home bailiwick.

True enough, an old national convention tradition has it that an incumbent Governor cannot be opposed by his own state delegation if he is a favorite son candidate. But New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller has uttered remarks about never seeking the Presidency again that had the categorically definitive flavor of General Sherman's famous refusal back in the Nineteenth Century. And Senator Javits, New York City's crusading liberal Republican who is a candidate for the Vice Presidency, has said that Rockefeller is a man of the word. Nixon has a perfect right to campaign for New York delegates if he so chooses.

Republican conservatives think Dick Nixon could get a significant number of New York delegates if he goes after them in a hammer- and -tongs manner. The reason for thinking this is inherent in the voting pattern that was disclosed last autumn, when Nelson Rockefeller succeeded himself as Governor with an actual minority of the total vote. The 510,000 votes that went to the third party Conservative candidate for Governor — the upstate college dean Paul Adams — surely included the votes of at least 380,000 small-c conservatives who are Republicans, not Conservative Party members. (This is by the Conservative Party's own count.) Concentrated in such areas as Queens County and Nassau County on Long Island, in the Hudson Valley of the old squirearchy, and on Staten Island, small-c conservative Republicans could assure Nixon enough home delegates to prove to Republicans everywhere that, as a campaigner, he can be a winning tiger.

Nixon could, theoretically, prove himself as a vote-getter by winning that early primary in New Hampshire. But anyone who puts his trust in New Hampshire should have his head examined. The number of primary voters who turn out in the snow-bound villages of that sparsely populated state do not constitute a cross-section of America, or even of the East. Anything can happen in New Hampshire, as was proved when Henry Cabot Lodge, absent in distant Saigon, won a primary there while Nelson Rockefeller and Barry Goldwater were campaigning on the spot.

It is important that Nixon show both a will-to-win and a capacity to win if he hopes to bring the three critical states of California, Texas, and Ohio over to his side in the later stages of the 1968 convention fight. Governor Reagan of California, Senator Tower of Texas, and Governor Rhodes of Ohio aren't going to release their delegates to someone they consider a sure loser. And if Nixon lacks the gumption to do something about his "fighting" "image" in his own New York State community, where he has lived for consider-

Robert Kennedy, how are Reagan, Tower, and Rhodes to knowably more time than Senator how good a tiger he might be?

Nixon may be loath to court conservatives with too much ardor. But he doesn't have to make his appeal in New York State to the registered members of the Conservative Party as such. They would be going for him without any asking, for they hate Nelson Rockefeller and Senator Javits with a deadly passion. To the extent that the official Conservative Party leaders have the power to persuade small-c Republican conservatives they would be in Nixon's corner in a number of critical delegate fights. After all, teamwork between the Big-C and small-c conservatives managed to send five New York State delegates to San Francisco in 1964 to vote for Barry Goldwater. And both Big-C and small-c conservatism are more powerful today in New York State than was the case three years ago.

Nixon can deal himself a good hand in his own state. But he must be a fighting Nixon to do it.

Medical Mirror

WATER ON THE KNEE

Q. What causes water on the knee and how is it best treated?

A. "Water on the knee" when there has been no physical injury is usually due to arthritis. Doctors usually advise joint support by means of an elastic bandage and restricted walking. If an excessive amount of fluid is present the physician may insert a needle into the joint and draw off the fluid.

EYE PLAGUES

Q. I am 51 and for several years have noticed raised deposits on my eyelids. They are getting larger and are very unsightly. Can they be removed?

A. Discuss this with your doctor. Generally speaking, such deposits indicate some disturbance in fat metabolism. They seem to occur more often in certain family groups than in others. Many such deposits can be removed but tend to come back. About the only reason for removal is cosmetic — they are harmless.

Barry Goldwater is one of those compulsive truth-tellers. He did Richard Nixon, his own preference for the Republican Presidential nomination, a bad turn when, in that Saturday Evening Post interview, he remarked that it would be hard to eradicate the idea that Nixon "can't be elected."

But the bad turn could, paradoxically, be transmuted into a good turn if it only moves Nixon to fight for the nomination with everything he's got. The test of Nixon's will-to-win may very well be in his own New York State, where Republican conservatives are trying to tell him that no Presidential aspirant has a chance of obtaining the nomination without at least some delegate support in his home bailiwick.

True enough, an old national convention tradition has it that an incumbent Governor cannot be opposed by his own state delegation if he is a favorite son candidate. But New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller has uttered remarks about never seeking the Presidency again that had the categorically definitive flavor of General Sherman's famous refusal back in the Nineteenth Century. And Senator Javits, New York City's crusading liberal Republican who is a candidate for the Vice Presidency, has said that Rockefeller is a man of the word. Nixon has a perfect right to campaign for New York delegates if he so chooses.

Republican conservatives think Dick Nixon could get a significant number of New York delegates if he goes after them in a hammer- and -tongs manner. The reason for thinking this is inherent in the voting pattern that was disclosed last autumn, when Nelson Rockefeller succeeded himself as Governor with an actual minority of the total vote. The 510,000 votes that went to the third party Conservative candidate for Governor — the upstate college dean Paul Adams — surely included the votes of at least 380,000 small-c conservatives who are Republicans, not Conservative Party members. (This is by the Conservative Party's own count.) Concentrated in such areas as Queens County and Nassau County on Long Island, in the Hudson Valley of the old squirearchy, and on Staten Island, small-c conservative Republicans could assure Nixon enough home delegates to prove to Republicans everywhere that, as a campaigner, he can be a winning tiger.

Nixon could, theoretically, prove himself as a vote-getter by winning that early primary in New Hampshire. But anyone who puts his trust in New Hampshire should have his head examined. The number of primary voters who turn out in the snow-bound villages of that sparsely populated state do not constitute a cross-section of America, or even of the East. Anything can happen in New Hampshire, as was proved when Henry Cabot Lodge, absent in distant Saigon, won a primary there while Nelson Rockefeller and Barry Goldwater were campaigning on the spot.

It is important that Nixon show both a will-to-win and a capacity to win if he hopes to bring the three critical states of California, Texas, and Ohio over to his side in the later stages of the 1968 convention fight. Governor Reagan of California, Senator Tower of Texas, and Governor Rhodes of Ohio aren't going to release their delegates to someone they consider a sure loser. And if Nixon lacks the gumption to do something about his "fighting" image in his own New York State community, where he has lived for considerable more time than Senator how good a tiger he might be?

Nixon may be loath to court conservatives with too much ardor. But he doesn't have to make his appeal in New York State to the registered members of the Conservative Party as such. They would be going for him without any asking, for they hate Nelson Rockefeller and Senator Javits with a deadly passion. To the extent that the official Conservative Party leaders have the power to persuade small-c Republican conservatives they would be in Nixon's corner in a number of critical delegate fights. After all, teamwork between the Big-C and small-c conservatives managed to send five New York State delegates to San Francisco in 1964 to vote for Barry Goldwater. And both Big-C and small-c conservatism are more powerful today in New York State than was the case three years ago.

Nixon can deal himself a good hand in his own state. But he must be a fighting Nixon to do it.

WATER ON THE KNEE

Q. What causes water on the knee and how is it best treated?

A. "Water on the knee" when there has been no physical injury is usually due to arthritis. Doctors usually advise joint support by means of an elastic bandage and restricted walking. If an excessive amount of fluid is present the physician may insert a needle into the joint and draw off the fluid.

EYE PLAGUES

Q. I am 51 and for several years have noticed raised deposits on my eyelids. They are getting larger and are very unsightly. Can they be removed?

A. Discuss this with your doctor. Generally speaking, such deposits indicate some disturbance in fat metabolism. They seem to occur more often in certain family groups than in others. Many such deposits can be removed but tend to come back. About the only reason for removal is cosmetic — they are harmless.

King Plans Anti-Vietnam Campaign

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Tuesday called for a nationwide campaign of massive teach-in and preach-ins to "awaken the conscience of the nation" to what he called the evils of the war in Vietnam.

In New York to make a major speech in connection with his escalating antiwar campaign, the civil rights leader said at a news conference that he also urges that "those who are prepared to do it, who see the great dangers ahead for mankind," become conscientious objectors.

King told newsmen at the Overseas Press Club, that his position against the war grows "out of love for America and a desire to see America reach a new plateau of fulfillment."

King repeated his belief that the Vietnam war "is doing great damage to the domestic programs which could rectify some of the evils in our society."

He described as "an absurd and very unfounded charge" a report issued last week by the House Committee on Un-American Activities linking the anti-war movement to communism.

King outlined four steps toward ending war:

- Unilateral cease-fire as suggested by United Nations Secretary-General U Thant.
- An end to all bombings of North and South Vietnam, and a halt to any other military build-up in Southeast Asia.
- "Making it crystal clear" that the National Liberation Front — the political arm of the Viet Cong — must be included in the negotiations and should take part in any government.
- Setting a date for the withdrawal of all foreign troops in line with the Geneva accord of 1954.

Annual Blessing Of Fleet Friday

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP)—The annual blessing of the fleet will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday in Lake Erie Harbor here before a cross erected on the deck of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co.'s ore carrier Vrbas.

The lakes shipping season opened there Monday when the Canadian vessel Ontario Plover left with 22,000 tons of coal bound for the Toronto area.

COMMITTEE HEADS — This group has a key role in promoting Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce functions as committee heads. They are, from the left seated: Dr. Robert N. Phillips, safety and health; Keith Wagner, membership; Eldred Parsons, area development; Ed Frericks, congressional action; standing — Lewis Cook, agri-business; Michael Harrison, program; Paul Smallwood, public relations. Other panel heads, not present for the picture, are: Ned Harden, city-county planning; Alden Bray, airport; Clare Silkwood, community appearance; L. D. ## Chamber of Commerce Week Health, Safety Efforts Stressed

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third in a series of informational stories concerning Chamber of Commerce Week, April 2-8. The Circleville Area Chamber theme for this period is "Accent on Youth." The Chamber exerts considerable effort toward safety and health of youngsters here, as outlined in today's article by Dr. Robert N. Phillips, chairman of the Safety and Health Committee.

The Circleville Area Chamber strives to promote continuation of the theory of driving defensively as well as merely knowing how to operate a vehicle within the law.

This effort is devoted to youth and adults alike. A primary objective is to instill in youngsters the vital need to learn and practice safe driving habits — techniques they will abide by for years to come.

Stressing elements of farm and home safety is another Chamber goal, with emphasis placed on hazards with which youth are most directly associated. The commonly used, yet extremely hazardous power lawnmower is a typical example.

Improve pedestrian protection is another objective. Chamber committeemen feel this program can become more effective through increased use of school safety markers, directional indicators, barriers, cross-walk signs and other devices.

COMMITTEE members note they stand ready to coordinate all meaningful efforts to aid organizations interested in bicycle safety in this area.

The committee also has conducted an extensive study on installation of equipment necessary for a city water supply fluoridation program as an oral health benefit for children of the community.

Delta Kappa Gamma Unit Holds Annual Convention

Circleville chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, a teacher's society, was among the 93 chapters in Ohio represented at the 29th annual state convention at the Dayton-Sheraton Hotel last weekend.

Mrs. Charles Schieber, 595 Ridgewood Drive, president of the local Beta Rho Chapter, was recognized at a luncheon honoring chapter presidents. Mrs. James Scott, 341 Northridge Road, is state chairman of the Committee on Personal Growth and Services and assisted in conducting the Assembly on Program.

Other Beta Rho members attending the various sessions were Mrs. Lewis Brevard, Mrs. William Grooms, Mrs. Leora Sayre, Mrs. Robert Scranton, and Mrs. John Dowler.

The theme of the convention was "Value Patterns" and progressed from "Values of Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." 1967 begins a 4-year study of a new program theme entitled "The Critical Analysis of Values" — A Basis for Action. An International Committee composed of members from 10 states developed the program, Dr. Helen Caskey from Ohio being the primary author, presented the topics to be considered: Personal Values as Face-to-Face Relationships, Immediate Community, Larger Community, and Professional Values. Moral, Social, Political, and Economic Value Patterns will also be considered.

One of the unique features of each state convention is the presenting of the Green Corages. Each chapter president wears a corsage composed of money folded in decorative shapes and later presents it to the state society to be used as grants-in-aid for undergraduate girls who are juniors majoring in the field of education. Proceeds for this purpose were received in the amount of $1,008.93. Mrs. Schieber wore a green corsage from Beta Rho Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma.

Among the outstanding speakers was Mrs. Ethel Swanbeck, a member of the Ohio House of Representatives. Mrs. Swanbeck spoke concerning House Bill 124 of which he is the author. This bill will be presented to the legislature in the near future and concerns the establishing of a "Status of Women Commission."

Miss Emma Neal Bogges, Northeast Regional Director of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society spoke on the topic "Are Your Values Showing?"

Music for the convention was provided by the Fairview High School Brass Choir under the direction of Robert H. Griep and Kettering Fairmont West High School Chorus, directed by Mr. Gene Seeberger presented excerpts from "My Fair Lady."

Union Calls Racial Bill 'Political'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Construction union representatives assailed Tuesday night an administration bill to ban racial discrimination in employment on state projects. They called it unconstitutional, politically motivated and "discrimination in reverse."

They testified before the House Labor and Industry Committee on a bill which would write into law an executive order issued earlier this year by GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes. One witness called the governor's order "obviously illegal."

Lyle W. Castle, attorney for the Cincinnati Building Trades Council, was the most outspoken union witness. He raised the question as to whether the bill was politically motivated.

Castle said "many adept politicians" in the past "have used this type of a campaign to win block voting."

The attorney referred to the executive order as "obviously illegal" but added: "The federal government forced the governor by threatening to cancel millions of dollars worth of federal contracts."

Castle agreed with earlier witnesses' contentions that the bill is not needed because discrimination of this type already is outlawed by Ohio's Fair Employment Practices Act and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Martin Graham, representing the Ohio State Building and Trades Council, asked: "Why should another law be added?" Graham said the legislation is "filled with inflammatory statements and misleading half truths" and charged that the construction industry has been "singled out and punished without a trial and without facts."

William J. Lohr, counsel for the National Electrical Contractors' Association which has about 400 members in Ohio, attacked the "hiring hall" provisions in the bill which would require the hiring of some Negro apprentices and journeymen "regardless of qualifications."

Lohr said: "This is discrimination in reverse. It violates the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution which guarantees everyone equal protection under the law."

Committee members questioned the witnesses to some length as to why, if the in-

Dear Abby: Mom Should Heed Her Son's Request

DEAR ABBY: Will you please answer this quickly? My only son will soon be returning from Viet Nam. He has requested that I let his wife meet his train ALONE. He says he wants just two days and nights with his wife for "the honeymoon they never had."

He wants me to keep their two young children, without telling them that their Daddy is in town. I am just supposed to say that "Mama went to get Daddy, and will bring him to Grandma's house. After this disgusting two-day sex orgy, the children and I will be allowed to greet him!"

I may not like your answer, Abby, but I will abide by it. I think this request is highly unfair to me. Just sign me — ONLY HIS MOTHER

DEAR ONLY: It is your son's request, Mother. Forget everything other than fulfilling it.

DEAR ABBY: To get right to the point, I do not care for dogs in my house. This goes for big dogs, little dogs, and even the hairless kind that are not supposed to smell, but do. They are all dogs to me. We reared our children and had dogs for them, but they were never allowed in the house. They slept in doghouses or out in the garage.

My problem; We have relatives who are dog-crazy. They love their dogs more than some people love their children. . . These relatives have visited us, and brought their dogs along — knowing how I feel about them, and have even taken them into their beds! Abby, we have just redecorated our home, installed new carpet, and recovered our furniture, and I do not want dogs on it.

dustry had not been guilty of discrimination, there are so few Negroes employed in it.

H. W. Crews of Ironton, for instance, told the committee that only three of 900 applicants in the Ohio Valley Apprenticeship and Training Program in the past four years were Negroes.

Crews assured the committee that "the doors are open to everyone" and that particular program, he said, has consistently followed a non-discrimination policy.

Crews said that of the three Negroes who did apply for the training program, only one met certain educational background and physical requirements "and he never showed up for an interview."

again. How can I let them know they are welcome but not their dogs, without having them think I am an old crab?

NO DOG LOVER

DEAR NO DOG LOVER: You can TELL them before they arrive that they are welcome, but their dogs are not. But don't be surprised if you get the "love me — love my dog" bit. They WILL think you are an old crab, but you'll have kept the dogs out of your home, and that's the object, isn't it?

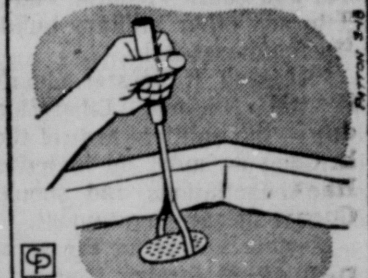

DEAR ABBY: The other day I was jolted by a flaw in an otherwise stunning 21-year-old blonde. On my first approach to her, I noticed that her teeth badly needed brushing. I realize that this could happen to anyone occasionally, but with this girl, it is a habit.

The idea of kissing a girl with noticeable food particles between her teeth is utterly revolting. Someone should tell her, but I am not the one. How about you?

DEAR STUNNED: Since I consider it a kindness to offer constructive criticism, I'll do it: Girls, look at your teeth after you've eaten, and, if necessary, slip away and privately use a bit of dental floss. P. S. You, too, fellows.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PLAYS CUPID, BUT FLOPS": Don't arrange "blind dates" between two people unless you honestly feel that you are doing them BOTH a favor.

Varadero Airlift Brings 3,700 Cubans Here Monthly

VARADERO, Cuba, AP — The Varadero airlift, 16 months old, has settled into a routine operation for everyone except the 3,700 Cubans who leave monthly on the 35-minute flight to Miami, Fla.

Twice daily, Monday through Friday, U.S. airliners touch down on the runway at this beach resort 80 miles east of Havana to pick up the departing Cubans.

Since the operation began Dec. 1, 1965, nearly 60,000 have flown to the United States this way. Havana sources say an estimated 120,000 to 150,000 others are on the waiting list, and predict the airlift will continue at least three years more.

With no friends or relatives present, there is little visible emotion as the Cubans sit docilely through the last moments. Some say they have tried for five years to leave. Others report waiting slightly more than a year.

A Swiss observer and a handful of Cuba government officials look on.

Two U.S. immigration officials and a U.S. Public Health Service doctor who come with the plane from Miami take the Cubans through the final checks. Then someone calls out in English "all aboard," and the Cubans walk silently toward the plane. A smiling girl skips ahead of her mother.

The airlift agreement was worked out by the Swiss Embassy, which represents U.S. interests in Cuba.

At present, only Cubans with relatives in the United States are eligible. Males 15-26, the age for military service, and technicians are prohibited from leaving. The Cuban government approves a list of applicants which must be verified in Washington and returned to Havana for re-checking. More than 20 Swiss Embassy personnel are involved in this paperwork.

Air transportation is paid for in dollars by the United States, which contracts with airlines to make the flights.

Although perhaps 250 to 300 Cubans leave monthly by other routes such as Spain and Mexico, the free flights from Varadero remain the principal outlet. Air fare by other means must be paid in dollars.

The Cuban government says any Cuban who wants to leave is free to do so. Those who take the Varadero airlift or other routes must leave all their possessions behind except what they can take in a suitcase.

Members of Ashville Past Chiefs Club of the Pythian Sisters were hostesses Thursday evening for the District 2 Past Chiefs Club.

The group voted to give the evening's collection to Mrs. Evelyn Zwyer, matron of the Medina Home, to be used toward the purchase of new dishes there.

Mrs. Zwyer also received many personal donations for the fund. Cards were signed by those present and sent to Minnie Bailey of Mt. Sterling and Hattie Rife of Ashville.

Election of officers was held with Kitty Mead of Circleville

Hascal Ramey is a patient in Mercy Hospital, Columbus, where he underwent knee surgery. He is in room 309D.

The annual basketball banquet a carry-in dinner, sponsored by the Teays Valley Athletic Boosters Club, was held Friday evening in the school cafeteria.

Honored guests were members of the varsity, reserve, freshman teams, cheerleaders, coaches and advisers. More than 200 guests, families and friends attended the event.

Richard Beadle of the school faculty acted as master-of ceremonies.

Mrs. Donald Collins introduced cheerleaders of each squad.

Russ Gregg coach of the freshman team, commented on the squad's 13-1 record for the season and presented awards to players.

Receiving the Most Valuable Player honor was Rex Gregg who also won the foul shooting trophy. Receiving the Most Improved Player trophy was Ed McCord.

The team was the winner of first place in league competition. Players Rick Teets and Neil Fosnaugh accepted the trophy for the team, then presented it to the school.

John Drummond, coach of the reserve team, presented the special awards to his players. Receiving the Most Valuable honor was Walter Newman. The Most Improved Player Award was given to Lee Curry. Both these awards are voted on by members of the team. The foul shooting award was received by James Barr.

Gregg presented members of the varsity team. The Most Valuable Player trophy went to Rod Teets who broke five school records during the past season. He was also selected on the all-league team and received honorable mention on the all-district team.

He presented certificates to Rod Teets for being selected on the all-county team the station had selected and to Jim Estep as a runner-up.

The evening program ended with remarks by Benis Lutz. School colors of blue and gold were used in the cafeteria as decorations with vases of spring flowers.

Each player and cheerleader received a miniature player or girl with their picture on it as favors, along with a gold miniature basketball.

Varadero Airlift Brings 3,700 Cubans Here Monthly

VARADERO, Cuba, AP — The Varadero airlift, 16 months old, has settled into a routine operation for everyone except the 3,700 Cubans who leave monthly on the 35-minute flight to Miami, Fla.

Twice daily, Monday through Friday, U.S. airliners touch down on the runway at this beach resort 80 miles east of Havana to pick up the departing Cubans.

Since the operation began Dec. 1, 1965, nearly 60,000 have flown to the United States this way. Havana sources say an estimated 120,000 to 150,000 others are on the waiting list, and predict the airlift will continue at least three years more.

With no friends or relatives present, there is little visible emotion as the Cubans sit docilely through the last moments. Some say they have tried for five years to leave. Others report waiting slightly more than a year.

A Swiss observer and a handful of Cuba government officials look on.

Two U.S. immigration officials and a U.S. Public Health Service doctor who come with the plane from Miami take the Cubans through the final checks. Then someone calls out in English "all aboard," and the Cubans walk silently toward the plane. A smiling girl skips ahead of her mother.

The airlift agreement was worked out by the Swiss Embassy, which represents U.S. interests in Cuba.

At present, only Cubans with relatives in the United States are eligible. Males 15-26, the age for military service, and technicians are prohibited from leaving. The Cuban government approves a list of applicants which must be verified in Washington and returned to Havana for re-checking. More than 20 Swiss Embassy personnel are involved in this paperwork.

Air transportation is paid for in dollars by the United States, which contracts with airlines to make the flights.

Although perhaps 250 to 300 Cubans leave monthly by other routes such as Spain and Mexico, the free flights from Varadero remain the principal outlet. Air fare by other means must be paid in dollars.

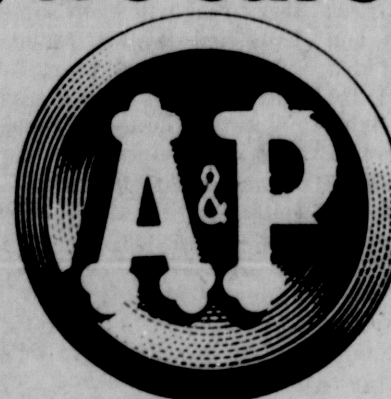

The Cuban government says any Cuban who wants to leave is free to do so. Those who take the Varadero airlift or other routes must leave all their possessions behind except what they can take in a suitcase.

British Will Sue

LONDON (AP) — The British government plans to sue the American owners of the tanker Torrey Canyon for damages, Prime Minister Harold Wilson told the House of Commons today.

The 138,000 people of the Dutch island of Curacao speak a language of their own called Papiamentu, plus English, Dutch, French and Spanish.

Views on TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The continuing strike of the performers' union which has snarled the daytime schedules of the three major television networks, affected evening shows Tuesday night.

CBS, on very short notice, postponed its widely promoted "National Science Test" and substituted a personal, hour-long report on the Vietnam war by CBS correspondent Morley Safer.

It was a shame that more advance notice could not have been given. The program was one of the clearest pictures of that distant war that has been shown on television.

Safer had no big opinions — "I just don't know," he said about withdrawal, escalation and such — but with excellent film footage and his own keen observation, he conveyed the feeling of what he called "schizophrenia" about conditions there.

His overwhelming impression, he noted, was of "blood and beer and sweat and cheap perfume." We saw Americans pinned down by sniper fire, a soldier killed by misdirected artillery fire, a stripper in a Saigon night spot, undernourished children playing games in a cemetery.

"Generals look out of place in war," Safer noted. "Their fatigues are too well pressed."

Safer's own heroes are the helicopter pilots — "extensions of the World War I aces," he called them.

He seems to dislike the war as much as any of the soldiers he talked to in the field.

"My total impression," he said, is one of brutal absurdity.

Johnny Carson, after five years on "The Tonight Show" has not been happy for some months, and his decision to quit the show, made known Tuesday, seems to be an extension of this discontent.

His announcement comes, however, at a time when he is facing his toughest competition. The AFTRA strike permitting, ABC will launch Joey Bishop in a competitive show April 17 and on May 1 Bill Dana will start a nightly two-hour revue-type show from Las Vegas on the new United network.

NBC reran a fairly recent Carson show Tuesday night. Carson's lawyer claims such reruns violate his network agreement which has almost three more years to run. NBC, in a statement, said the use of reruns is permitted by the contract.

Recommended tonight: "The Sid Caesar-Imogene Coca-Carl Reiner-Howard Morris Special," CBS, 8:30-9:30 EST, a reunion of the old "Your Show of Shows" team; "Crossroads in Space," 10-11, an NBC inquiry into NASA's future plans.

Campaign Spending Law Is 40 Years Outdated

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a hard-fought campaign in northern Virginia's 10th Congressional District, Republican Rep. Joel T. Broyhill, spent $91,000 in winning re-election. Democratic challenger Clive DuVal spent $125,000 in a losing effort.

Yet federal law says House candidates can't spend more than $5,000. Senate candidates are limited to $25,000.

Where does that put Broyhill and DuVal? Right in the midst of the large number of candidates who have found it hard to run for congress without breaking the spirit if not the letter of the federal Corrupt Practices Act.

The race between Broyhill and DuVal was typical of hard-fought — and free-spending — 1966 House campaigns in urban areas.

A survey of campaign fund reports required by law showed today that most candidates spent far more than $5,000 in House races.

The limit was set in 1925. As time passed and the costs of campaigning rose, loopholes were found in the tough-sounding law.

Thus in 1964, $193,000 was collected to finance the campaign of Richard L. Ottinger for a House seat from New York.

A violation of the law? Not really. The federal law doesn't cover committees operating within a single state. The Ottinger campaign funds were collected by 30 committees.

They didn't have to go far to find contributors. The total collected included $168,000 parceled out to various committees by the candidate's mother and sister.

The report Ottinger had to file with the House clerk to satisfy the federal law showed no contributions or expenditures.

Another loophole is the exemptions allowed by the law. Personal travel expenses, meals, postage, printing, telephone and telegraph bills are among the items not included in the spending limits.

But the biggest loophole of all has been simply ignoring the law.

Congressional sources say enforcement would be the responsibility of the Department of Justice.

But a department spokesman said it has no intention of policing Congress without a specific invitation from the House or Senate.

The reports filed in the House showed a broad range of interpretation of the law's provisions as well as widely differing attitudes toward it.

Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee, listed spending of $23,202 in the category limited to $5,000.

Wilson explained the money was collected and spent by a committee and he simply filed with the House figures given him by the group that helped finance his campaign.

When it was pointed out that the manner of reporting indicated the spending limit had been exceeded, Wilson said he had used "the required form" to file the data.

Wilson said he favored an overhaul of the campaign financing law to raise spending ceilings to "realistic" levels and to provide for reporting that shows "the actual cost."

There is some doubt about the status of committees under the federal law.

The reports showed some candidates felt that if they had any control over committees working in their behalf, money spent by those groups would come under the $5,000 limit.

Many congressmen are unhappy about the 40-year-old system. Calls for reform have been sounded in the past and have increased in number this year, generated in part by a general congressional concern over ethics in the wake of the Adam Clayton Powell case.

A small group of congressmen recently charged the present requirements for disclosing campaign finances are in fact no system at all.

On one section of the report, the responses were all the same.

It requires the candidate to list each case in which he or someone acting for him has promised a job to someone in exchange for support.

In every case the same answer was given: "None."

WASHINGTON (AP) — No other major nation in the world has a per capita death rate from fires as high as the United States.

This was reported to a Senate subcommittee Tuesday by J. Herbert Holloman, acting undersecretary of commerce.

The U.S. rate, Holloman said, is six and a half times that of Japan, for instance. It is twice that of Canada and four times that of the United Kingdom, he said.

Holloman testified in favor of the fire research and safety act proposed by President Johnson. Ten million dollars is envisioned as the first-year cost of a proposed five-year program.

Research into causes of fires and techniques to prevent and fight them would be provided for by the legislation. It also deals with training of firefighting personnel, fire prevention demonstration projects and public education on fire hazards.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of architects who prowled the U.S. Capitol building from top to bottom say it needs plenty of repairs but isn't at the falling-down stage yet.

The inspection team urged a restoration job, noting that none of the defects in the 168-year-old sandstone walls "appear to indicate that danger of collapse is imminent or that correction is impracticable."

Some settling is going on but the Capitol "is not slipping down the hill," they said.

The inspection team was given its assignment by the American Institute of Architects, which is fighting proposals to extend the west front of the building to create more office space.

Latin-American experts think the Communists may pull out all the stops in efforts to make the Punta del Este meeting of the hemisphere's presidents a flop next week. The Reds' objective will be to create disturbances that will keep some presidents tied down at home.

Views on TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The continuing strike of the performers' union which has snarled the day-time schedules of the three major television networks, affected evening shows Tuesday night.

CBS, on very short notice, postponed its widely promoted "National Science Test" and substituted a personal, hour-long report on the Vietnam war by CBS correspondent Morley Safer.

It was a shame that more advance notice could not have been given. The program was one of the clearest pictures of that distant war that has been shown on television.

Safer had no big opinions — "I just don't know," he said about withdrawal, escalation and such — but with excellent film footage and his own keen observation, he conveyed the feeling of what he called "schizophrenia about conditions there."

His overwhelming impression, he noted, was of "blood and beer and sweat and cheap perfume." We saw Americans pinned down by sniper fire, a soldier killed by misdirected artillery fire, a stripper in a Saigon night spot, undernourished children playing games in a cemetery.

"Generals look out of place in war," Safer noted. "Their fatigues are too well pressed."

Safer's own heroes are the helicopter pilots — "extensions of the World War I aces," he called them.

He seems to dislike the war as much as any of the soldiers he talked to in the field.

"My total impression," he said, is one of brutal absurdity."

Johnny Carson, after five years on "The Tonight Show" has not been happy for some months, and his decision to quit the show, made known Tuesday, seems to be an extension of this discontent.

His announcement comes, however, at a time when he is facing his toughest competition. The AFTRA strike permitting, ABC will launch Joey Bishop in a competitive show April 17 and on May 1 Bill Dana will start a nightly two-hour revue — type show from Las Vegas on the new United network.

Alabama Versus 'Federals' Looks Like Hard Fight

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — What's the next step in Gov. Lurleen Wallace's promised defiance of a federal court order to integrate all Alabama schools? Ultimately, many legislators agree, the courts will have their way and the city and county school boards will start desegregating their faculties and increase pupil integration. But before that comes about, a lot of words will be spoken, most of them angrily. There probably will be further court hearings.

The first official action in response to the governor's plea to the legislature for resistance may come this week in the legislative halls where Alabama seceded from the Union in 1861.

and where the Confederacy was formed.

Mrs. Wallace asked the Alabama House and Senate to pass a "cease-and-desist" order directed to the three-judge court which handed down the state-wide integration mandate. A resolution invoking the state's police power and calling on the court to rescind its order probably will be introduced this week.

How much force such a resolution would have remains to be seen. The court probably won't recognize it.

The legislature also may resolve itself into a committee of the whole to hear testimony from school administrators.

Mrs. Wallace said that would enable the House and Senate to determine what legislation would be needed to support the resistance.

Finally, unless the court order is set aside pending an appeal to the Supreme Court — and there appears to be little likelihood of that — the governor told the legislature she wants the authority to take over the schools.

The strategy behind that is to compel the court to deal with the governor's office instead of state school authorities.

Mrs. Wallace could refuse to comply with the court order and say to the judges — as she did in substance last Thursday night

— "You have made the order, now you enforce it."

But it takes time to get legislation of such magnitude through the House and Senate and State School Supt. Ernest Stone has just two weeks to file with the court the first in a series of status reports.

Because only one of the state's more than 100 school systems was directly involved in the court decree, Stone was instructed to notify the others of the judges' order.

He was given 25 days from the date of the court ruling, March 22, to report what he has done to notify the local boards. Suppose the legislature takes away the superintendent's supervisory power over the schools and gives it to the governor?

Stone may find himself caught between a state government telling him to do one thing and a federal court refusing to recognize the state's intervention and ordering him to do another.

Before it is over, federal authorities may have to decide whether to send in troops or U.S. marshals to see that the court order is carried out and to preserve peace.

Then the governor's husband, former Gov. George C. Wallace, could campaign for president

Wayward Boy's Home
EAST GREENWICH, R.I. (AP) — Plans for the Washington Oaks Home for Wayward Boys in Foster care for foster parents to live with the youths, who have been referred from Family Court, in hopes of changing them from potential delinquents into responsible members of the community, says the Rev. Harry McInture, executive director of Opportunities, Inc., the project sponsor.

telling the voters how his state had been "occupied" by federal forces.

Alabama Versus 'Federalists' Looks Like Hard Fight

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) —What's the next step in Gov. Lurleen Wallace's promised defiance of a federal court order to integrate all Alabama schools? Ultimately, many legislators agree, the courts will have their way and the city and county school boards will start desegregating their faculties and increase pupil integration. But before that comes about, a lot of words will be spoken, most of them angrily. There probably will be further court hearings.

The first official action in response to the governor's plea to the legislature for resistance may come this week in the legislative halls where Alabama seceded from the Union in 1861.

and where the Confederacy was formed.

Mrs. Wallace asked the Alabama House and Senate to pass a "cease-and-desist" order directed to the three-judge court which handed down the state-wide integration mandate. A resolution invoking the state's police power and calling on the court to rescind its order probably will be introduced this week.

How much force such a resolution would have remains to be seen. The court probably won't recognize it.

The legislature also may resolve itself into a committee of the whole to hear testimony from school administrators.

Mrs. Wallace said that would enable the House and Senate to determine what legislation would be needed to support the resistance.

Finally, unless the court order is set aside pending an appeal to the Supreme Court — and there appears to be little likelihood of that — the governor told the legislature she wants the authority to take over the schools.

The strategy behind that is to compel the court to deal with the governor's office instead of state school authorities.

Mrs. Wallace could refuse to comply with the court order and say to the judges — as she did in substance last Thursday night

— "You have made the order, now you enforce it."

But it takes time to get legislation of such magnitude through the House and Senate and State School Supt. Ernest Stone has just two weeks to file with the court the first in a series of status reports.

Because only one of the state's more than 100 school systems was directly involved in the court decree, Stone was instructed to notify the others of the judges' order.

He was given 25 days from the date of the court ruling, March 22, to report what he has done to notify the local boards. Suppose the legislature takes away the superintendent's supervisory power over the schools and gives it to the governor?

Stone may find himself caught between a state government telling him to do one thing and a federal court refusing to recognize the state's intervention and ordering him to do another.

Before it is over, federal authorities may have to decide whether to send in troops or U.S. marshals to see that the court order is carried out and to preserve peace.

Then the governor's husband, former Gov. George C. Wallace, could campaign for president

WASHINGTON (AP) — The earth not only didn't shake, it didn't even tremble. What happened Monday may not mean much in the long view of history. But President Johnson was rebuffed, and at an awkward time for him.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee simply questioned his judgment and leadership in foreign affairs, and put a brake on it. That this could happen, in the way it did, shows Johnson no longer waves a magic wand over Congress.

Next week he is going to a summit meeting of Latin-American leaders at Punta del Este, Uruguay. As an encouragement to them in creating a common market, Johnson wanted to take with him a congressional pledge of U.S. aid.

He wanted to avoid being vague; he wanted to be a little definite. But the committee, headed by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, decided that being vague was as far as he should go.

This decision has roots beginning in August 1964, when North Vietnamese PT boats attacked American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin and U.S. planes retaliated by bombing coastal bases of North Vietnam.

Johnson asked Congress then to back him up by approving a resolution giving him a congressional go-ahead beforehand for whatever steps he thought necessary to "repel ... aggression."

Both houses approved overwhelmingly but not before some of the members expressed misgivings about such a blanket endorsement for the future.

The resolution said the power authorized for the President would last until he had decided peace was restored to Southeast Asia. On the strength of this, and without any formal declaration of war, Johnson intensified the war.

As time passed, and the United States got more deeply involved, some of the misgivings in Congress grew, particularly among critics of the war, like Fulbright and Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat.

Finally, in 1966 Morse tried to get the Senate to rescind the Gulf of Tonkin resolution which Fulbright had helped push through. In 1966 Fulbright said he regretted the 1964 resolution and opposed killing the Morse proposal. But the Senate did kill it, 95 to 5.

In preparation for his Latin-American trip, Johnson on March 13 sent Congress a message asking a resolution to strengthen his hand at Punta del Este. He spoke of $1.5 billion additional aid to Latin America over the next five years. This would help the common market get going.

But the proposed resolution itself didn't mention any specific money figure. It would simply have said that Congress "recommends" an increase in Latin-American aid.

In approving the kind of resolution Johnson wanted, Congress would not have been voting any money. Voting money is a separate action — in this case off in the future — and when the time came Congress would decide how much money could be given.

The House, after some bitter disagreements, approved a resolution saying it "supports" additional help to Latin America. But, before the full Senate could vote on it, Fulbright's committee had to act. Fulbright opposed the House resolution, which satisfied Johnson, as a "blank check."

Under Fulbright's leadership his committee boiled the juice out of what Johnson proposed and said no more than that the United States should give "due consideration to cooperating" in agreements on a Latin-American common market and other programs.

This infuriated the White House. Fulbright cited the

In 1966, some 116 million persons journeyed outside their homelands. They spent an amount estimated in dollars as $13.5 billion—2 billion more than in 1965.

Tonkin Gulf resolution as one of the main reasons for his opposition to the Johnson resolution on Latin America, saying the President used the 1964 resolution to justify increasing the war in Vietnam.

The Fulbright committee action isn't necessarily final. The full Senate can have final say on exactly what kind of resolution Johnson should get. But Johnson may have to go to Punta del Este empty-handed and defeated if the Senate fails to act before he leaves.

Chamber To Take New Look at CIC

Plans to review Community Improvement Corporation possibilities here and efforts to conduct a course in salesman-customer relations were included on the agenda during Tuesday's monthly meeting of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Board.

The Community Improvement Corporation proposal was sounded by Eldred Paulus, chairman of the area development committee. He suggested a meeting of his panel in March. Similar efforts to establish a CIC were made last year, although no definite steps were taken. Board members, indicating the move should be revived, recommended additional informational meetings be scheduled. The salesman-customer relations program is being planned by Ward Skinner and his retail merchants committee. Present plans call for sessions to be conducted on three Tuesday evenings in May at Boyer's Restaurant.

ACCORDING to Skinner, the meetings would be held from 7 to 9 p. m. with the class to be limited to the first 15 to sign up. Registration would be open to anyone in Pickaway County who works with the public. Submitting regular committee reports were Alden D. Bray on the airport, Keith Wagner on Membership, Paul Smallwood on public relations, Clare Silkwood on community appearance and Roy Huffer Jr. and Ed Frericks on congressional action.

Thomas Elsea, representing the Junior Chamber, reported on various projects coming up within his organization.

In other business, the public relations committee was authorized to initiate plans designed to replace the Chamber's "Welcome to Circleville" sign south of the city. A meeting with sign manufacturing representatives is planned later this month.

Guests at the Pickaway Arms luncheon session included Richard Gerhardt, attorney and candidate for city major, and Wayne E. Smith, personnel director at General Electric and members of the Chamber Public Relations panel.

President Robert M. Johnson and secretary-manager Mrs. E. R. Bennett called attention to Chamber of Commerce Week now being observed here. The local theme is "Accent on Youth."

American Farmer Adopts Ancient Egyptian Method

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — Since the time of Joseph, the Nile River has flooded each year to refurbish the river land with water and silt and boost Egyptian farm production.

In southwest Missouri, Eugene M. Poirot, 68, borrows this technique to grow bumper crops on land that a generation ago brought farmers a bare living.

For Poirot, the Nile is Little Coon Creek, a sluggish meandering stream searching its way through the rolling country for the Spring River.

But in winter and early spring it can turn into a swollen, gushing torrent. This is when Poirot captures part of the excess water in ponds to use when the rains fall and the broiling Missouri sun threatens to shrivel the crops.

"This land has come through the whole sequence of poverty farming — drought, depression, everything," Poirot said. "We're doing a good job of farming now by returning the plant food to the soil and supplying water."

In 1966, southwest Missouri was a drought disaster area. Only 23 inches of rain fell, compared to the normal 48. By pumping excess creek water into an 11-acre pond, Poirot irrigated 270 acres. His corn yielded 125 bushels an acre, and a field of green beans netted him $85 an acre.

"That isn't disaster," Poirot grinned.

Most irrigation in the United States involves drawing of water from deep wells or directly from amply supplied streams. Neither works in southwest Missouri. Poirot believes he has a cheap, simple method of turning poor land and deficient rainfall into riches for his community. It could be the key to industrial development as well.

It involves a system of ponds and dams.

About a year ago Poirot and area business leaders formed the Ozark Agricultural and Industrial Development Corp. Their proposed development area includes 2.1 million acres and extends into portions of Kansas and Oklahoma.

"If we can develop irrigation by using water usually wasted in runoffs," Poirot said, "we can have more additional income in a year than one of the dams would cost."

Poirot insists farmers need a cheap method of irrigation. Deep wells, pumps, pipe and sprinkler devices cost from $20,000 to $30,000. Poirot's total investment for irrigating up to 300 acres is $6,000.

"This has to be so cheap the guy without money can do it," Poirot said. "The rich guy doesn't need it."

Poirot's ponds are simply holes scooped out of the earth by bulldozers. The dams are earthen. Water is pumped from Coon Creek at the rate of 2,500 gallons a minute by an old mine pump which cost $270. It is powered by a battered tractor operating a belt-driven pulley. The water is forced uphill through a large steel pipe into the pond.

When Poirot is ready to irrigate—perhaps months later—he opens a large valve and the water rushes through a system of cheap plastic pipes into the fields.

Robert Dale, publisher of the Carthage Press, is president of the development group and is a believer in Poirot's methods.

"We've been getting good support from our congressmen—both in Missouri and Kansas—and so far we haven't run into any snags," Dale said.

Bill Would Let Welfare Children Earn Income

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Welfare children could earn a few dollars peddling newspapers without affecting their families' relief payments under a bill which has reached the halfway point in the state legislature.

House members approved Tuesday a measure which would permit the director of welfare to define "income and resources" when determining the need of welfare recipients. Definitions now are made by statute.

Sponsors said the bill would bring state law in line with federal regulations which have held that children in relief families can earn small amounts from menial chores without reducing aid payments. Such income may be deducted under present law.

The bill passed the House 94-0 while across the Statehouse, senators debated for 90 minutes before approving 25-8 a controversial bill requiring school boards to recognize teacher organizations with the most members for collective bargaining purposes. It now goes to the House.

Backers of the bill included the Ohio Education Association which would stand to represent teachers in nearly all of Ohio's 712 school districts. Opponents included the Ohio Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, which has only an estimated 5,400 members in the state compared to about 86,000 for the OEA.

Senate Minority Leader Frank W. King D-11 Toledo, Lucas, who also is president of the Ohio AFL-CIO, led the floor fight against the bill after offering an unsuccessful amendment.

He sought changes that would have required recognition of teacher organizations getting the most votes in a secret ballot election and striking a provision that would base recognition on certified lists of members' names submitted to school boards.

The Senate accepted an amendment by Sen. Charles J. Carney D-33 Youngstown, Mahoning, which called for recognition of the group having a majority of members in the district rather than the original wording of "those having the largest number of teachers."

Besides the welfare measure, the House passed two other bills and sent them to the Senate. One would allow school boards to purchase or lease property to provide parking space for teachers. The other would hike from 25 cents to $1 the fee for issuing a duplicate fishing license.

Seven new bills were introduced in the House and Senate. Among them were proposals to:

- Increase the legal length of commercial tractor-trailer combinations from 40 to 55 feet.
- Require a fire chief's permit for purchase of fireworks for public or private displays.
- Allow joint vocational school districts to build and operate dormitories and other student facilities.
- Require overtime pay rate of 1 1/2 times regular pay for state, county and township employees earning less than $7,300 a year and double time for work on Sundays and holidays.

Never on Sundays

KICEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) — Kicevo's town matrimonial clerk believes marriage is a work-a-day arrangement and not a holiday affair. He refuses to perform weddings on Sundays, insisting "people in love should get married on working days. Marriage is not just a holiday matter."

Patty Duke Has Become Dissolute Neely O'Hara

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's a nice girl like Patty Duke doing in a movie like "Valley of the Dolls"?

The question may well be asked when fans learn that the cheery, wholesome star of "The Patty Duke Show" on television is now starring as the dissolute, pill-chomping singer Neely O'Hara in the film version of Jacqueline Susann's best seller.

Here's how the character is described in ads for the movie: "Neely O'Hara — to her, stardom was too many minks, martinis and men."

Patty Duke??!! There she was, portraying a scene under the direction of Mark Robson in which she seduced her press agent, played by Martin Milner. What will her youthful television followers think when they see her new role?

"I hope they won't see it," she replied. "It's not going to be the kind of picture that tender minds should see."

Patty Duke is still petite, bouncy and wholesome under all that makeup. She is also 20 years old. Having been a professional actress for 13 of those years, she would like to continue in her craft. To do so, she realizes she must escape the double-images of the teen-age types—she played dual roles of "The Patty Duke Show."

"I liked doing the series in the first couple of years," she recalled. "Then it was my whole life; I had no romances, I wasn't going to school. And the show was very helpful in getting me over that difficult period for a young performer — the transition from child to grown-up."

"The third year of the series was a drag. By that time I was married (to TV director Harry Falk) so I had an outside life of my own. I wasn't at all sorry to see the series end."

For almost a year after the show went off the air, Patty experienced something she had never known: a private life. She learned how to be a cook and housewife; oddly enough, she enjoyed the new life. But inevitably she felt the need to return to work. There was also an economic need.

"People used to tell me I would be able to retire when I was 21," she commented. "Not true." She found that her income during the high-earning three years in television was so shared by managers, agents, lawyers, accountants, etc., as to erase all dreams of retirement.

After deciding it was time to return to her career, Patty figured "Valley of the Dolls" would be the ideal image-breaking vehicle. But director Robson and producer David Weisbart understandably thought it would be preposterous to cast her in the sex-charged epic.

"Finally they agreed to talk to me," she said. "I must have done something right, because they wanted me to test for the role."

She was competing for the Neely O'Hara role with Barbara Parkins, Marlo Thomas and Kathy Hayes. Miss Parkins, a Fox contract player, was the apparent winner, but she inherited the Ann Wells role vacated by Candice Bergen. So now Patty is playing the not-so-nice Neely.

Tiger Thinclads Look Impressive In First Meet

The competition seasoned Circleville High School track team rolled to an impressive 107-20 victory over host school Miami Trace in a dual track meet Tuesday.

National League Looks Wide-Open

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The National League looks like a wide-open scramble again this year with the San Francisco Giants the pick in this corner to win over the favored Pittsburgh Pirates and the Atlanta Braves in another tight finish.

If there is any firm conviction about what is to be expected in October, it is the notion that the Los Angeles Dodgers will not repeat without Sandy Koufax. If Walter Alston does it again, he should be named manager of the century.

Juan Marichal figures to be Mr. Big of the pitchers, with Koufax in the television booth, and Willie Mays appears headed for a super season. The Giants just missed last year, losing to the Dodgers, but they beat out the Pirates by 1 1/2 games and took their season series 11-7.

Granted that the addition of Maury Wills, Juan Pizarro and Dennis Ribant should improve Pittsburgh, the Pirates still do not have a solid pitching staff. Atlanta closed with a rush in 1966, but their pitching also is questionable.

The Braves have the power to blast the league apart and the Pirates have the steady hitting and necessary tight defense, but pitching still is the big thing in baseball.

Back of the front three, we would toss St. Louis, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Cincinnati in a hat. Take your pick. Houston, Chicago and New York are the "other league" of the National although the Astros could get tough.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. San Francisco
2. Pittsburgh
3. Atlanta
4. St. Louis
5. Philadelphia
6. Los Angeles
7. Cincinnati
8. Houston
9. New York
10. Chicago

It will be up to Marichal, Gaylord Perry, Bobby Bolin, Lindy McDaniel and possibly Ray Sadecki to pitch the Giants to the pennant despite a weakness at shortstop. Mays and his younger outfield mates, plus Willie McCovey, Jim Ray Hart and Tom Haller must provide the bang.

If Wills can regain his old Dodger form and avoid leg injuries, he will make the Pirates' attack even more formidable. With Maury on base and men like Willie Stargell, Roberto Clemente and Donn Clendenon to drive him around, Pittsburgh should score plenty of runs.

The trick will be to keep the other club away from the plate. Much depends on the development of Tommie Sisk, Steve Blass and Woody Fryman. Pizarro, only 8-6 with the White Sox, could be the key.

Atlanta has the home run bon in Joe Torre, Hank Aaron, Mack Jones, Rico Carty and Felipe Alou. If Denis Menke and Woody Woodward firm up as a solid short-second combo, it will be easier for pitchers like Tony Cloninger, Ken Johnson, Denny Lemaster and the youngsters.

Without Koufax the Dodgers are just another ball club. They scramble for runs and should get more with Bob Bailey added to the attack. But they no longer have that big man to act as a stopper every fourth day.

season for the Black Panthers of Fayette County who have had little practice.

Circleville, on the other hand, has been working out in the junior high gymnasium since mid winter and has competed in numerous indoor events, at Ohio State University.

The Tigers won every event except the discus and the high jump. In the broad jump, the two-mile run, the 120-yard high hurdles, the 100-yard dash, the mile run, the 180-yard low hurdles and the 220-yard dash, Circleville took all three places.

RED AND BLACK cindermen also won both relay events with clockings of 1:40.1 in the 880 relay and 3:56 in the mile. Members of the 880 team were Larry Payne, Jim Samuel, Steve Dade and Tim Stonerock.

Running the mile were Tom Fletcher, Doug Smith, Larry Payne and Herron.

In addition to running on the winning relay team, Fletcher won the shot with a heave of 48 feet 5 inches, won the 440 yard dash in 56.6 and tied for first in the 220-yard dash with a time of 24.2. Stonerock was the Tiger who crossed the finish line simultaneously with Fletcher. Stonerock also won the 100-yard dash in 10.8 and placed third in the shot.

Steve Dade won both hurdle events, posting a time of 17.2 in the highs and 22.2 in the lows.

Other first place efforts for the Tigers were in the pole vault where Bruce Tigner won with a 10-foot 6-inch effort, in the two mile where Mel Smith was clocked in 11:07.1, in the mile with a 5:04.5 clocking by Mike Martindill and in the 880-yard run with Gerald McCain notching the victory in 2:12.2.

The first real test of the Tigers strength in South Central Ohio League competition comes Thursday at Miami Trace. A triangular meet on the Panthers' cinders brings Wilmington and Circleville together.

Circleville, Wilmington and Washington C. H. are considered the powers in the league track competition this season.

Washington Golfers Hold Triangular

WASHINGTON C. H. — The Washington High School golf team, defending champion of the South Central Ohio League, tied with London, 4 1/2-4 1/2, and defeated Miami Trace, 6 1/2-2 1/2, in a triangular meet Tuesday.

Tying for medalist honors in the meet were Ed Heath of Washington, Carl Gatewood of Miami Trace and Steve Pope of London, each carded a 39 over the par 36 layout at Washington Country Club.

Alcindor Honored

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lew Alcindor, the college Basketball Player of the Year who led UCLA to the national championship, gained another honor Tuesday night. The 7-foot-1 All-America super-sophomore won the Most Valuable Player trophy at the UCA awards dinner.

Freshman Manager Dick Williams of the Boston Red Sox has as his coaches Bobby Doerr, Al Lakeman, Sal Maglie and Ed Popowski.

ROUNDTOWN — Forrest Short reins the colt, Roundtown, around the track at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds for a brisk workout. Sired by Nighttime (1:57) and out of Widow Creed (2:05), Roundtown is staked in the Little Brown Jug. John Fissell is the owner.

Forrest Short Stable Has 18 Head in Training Here

One of the most enthusiastic and busy trainers at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds is Forrest Short, who is prepping 18 head of horses for the harness racing season.

Short might be called a comparative new-comer to the harness training profession. Although he has a life long interest in horses dating back to his boyhood days, Short did not actively begin training and driving until he was 50 years old.

Wearing his bright orange cap, he is a familiar sight jogging the horses of his stable at the Fairgrounds early each morning.

A horseman of the old school, he is among the last to start on the summer circuit. With none of his stable participating in winter meets, he brings the horses under his care along slowly.

RIGHT NOW he has been working his horses and colts around, 2:30 to 2:35.

Probably his first start of the year will be April 16 at the annual Pickaway County Harness Matinee.

Most of his racing is done at Scioto Downs and at the fairs in central Ohio. He also races at Northfield and at Lebanon.

One promising young colt Short is training has been named Roundtown by its owner, John Fissell. Sired by Nighttime and out of a mare owned by Fissell, Widow Creed, the colt is staked in the Scioto Downs Challenge Stakes and in the Little Brown Jug.

Roundtown's sire has a record of 1:57, while his dam has paced the mile in 2:05.

"I think he is going to be a good one," Fissell says of the colt he has entrusted to Short's training capabilities. "That's why I named him Roundtown."

FISSELL reports that Widow Creed is in foal to Nighttime again.

Short has three other colts he is training for the season. They are Majestic Hays, owned by Charley Hays of Grove City, Jerries Time, owned by Frank Moats of Williamsport, and Ranso Blaze, which he and his brother Harry Short own.

One of the top pacers in his stable is Royal J. Win, winner of the Scarlet and Gray Cup a couple of years ago. Owned by Short brothers, Royal J. Win has a record of 2:01.3.

The other horses which Forrest and Harry own jointly are Goldin Win, 9-year-old pacer with a 2:04 record; Sara Ann Scotch, a 4-year-old that has gone the mile in 2:05.3; Rod Night, and the 4-year-old trotter Leone.

Marion Moats of Mt. Sterling has three horses being trained by Short, including the veteran pacer, Hi Lo's Misty, with a record of 2:04. Molly Clay, a 4-year-old pacer has a winning time of 2:06.2 and the 4-year-old, Etham Yankee rounds out the string.

For George Fissell he is training Jet Pride, an 11-year-old pacer that has gone the mile in 2:06, and for Mary K. Fissell he has Mary K. Creed, a pacer with a 2:07 mark.

Short is also training Kay Creed, a 4-year-old pacer for Guy Courtwright and Dr. Pieker for Martin J. O'Brien of Cleveland. The latter has a mark of 2:07.2.

Clay-Patterson Fight All Set for Los Vegas

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson are set for another collision at Las Vegas, Nev., April 25 in what figures to be Patterson's last shot at the heavyweight title and the unbeaten champion's last fistic stand before his showdown with the U.S. Army.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali, signed Tuesday to defer against Patterson in the desert gambling mecca, where he battered the former champion for 11 rounds 1 1/2 years ago before winning by a technical knockout in the 12th.

The return meeting was shifted from Detroit to Las Vegas after negotiations broke down with the Detroit promoting group last week. A threatened lawsuit to prevent the Las Vegas bout failed to come off Tuesday in Detroit but Eddie D. Smith, attorney for the E&J Sports Club, said his client still may go to court.

"I'm sure this is the end of the road," Clay said at the signing ceremony in a New York hotel. He urged the public to come out "to witness this living legend and see this beautiful machine in action."

The 25-year-old champion faces induction into the Army on April 28 after failing to gain exemption as a minister of the Black Muslim religious sect. He has hinted, however, that he may risk going to jail rather than report for induction.

"I have made up my mind," he said, "but I will only answer to the government."

Clay said he thought Patterson, only man ever to lose the heavyweight crown (to Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in 1959) and then regain it, "should have another chance for my title before the induction comes off."

Patterson, who has reeled off a string of knockout victories since being stopped by Clay, flattened Britain's Henry Cooper in four rounds last year at London. Clay was unable to knock out Cooper in two tries.

"I am very happy to be able to get another chance," said Patterson, who complained of an ailing back after his unsuccessful challenge in November, 1965. "I will do everything I can to win."

Promoter Harold Conrad, representing Championship Sports, Inc., and Main Bout, Inc., was in Las Vegas today to select training sites and complete arrangements for the 15-round fight at the Convention Center.

Reynoldsburg won nine of the 15 events. The Vikings fared best in the field events with the discus, the pole vault and the high jump.

Dean Glitt was the lone double winner for Teays Valley. He topped the field in the shot with a 42-foot effort and was first in the discus, hurling it 112 feet 7 inches.

Dean Barr won the pole vault with a 11-foot effort, and George Coey cleared the bar at 6-feet in the high jump.

Other first place efforts by Teays Valley were in the mile where Puckett won in 5:03.8 and in the 180-yard low hurdles where Hall had a time of 23.4.

The 25-year-old champion faces induction into the Army on April 28 after failing to gain exemption as a minister of the Black Muslim religious sect. He has hinted, however, that he may risk going to jail rather than report for induction.

"I have made up my mind," he said, "but I will only answer to the government."

Clay said he thought Patterson, only man ever to lose the heavyweight crown (to Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in 1959) and then regain it, "should have another chance for my title before the induction comes off."

National League Looks Wide-Open

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The National League looks like a wide-open scramble again this year with the San Francisco Giants the pick in this corner to win over the favored Pittsburgh Pirates and the Atlanta Braves in another tight finish.

If there is any firm conviction about what is to be expected in October, it is the notion that the Los Angeles Dodgers will not repeat without Sandy Koufax. If Walter Alton does it again, he should be named manager of the century.

Juan Marichal figures to be Mr. Big of the pitchers, with Koufax in the television booth, and Willie Mays appears headed for a super season. The Giants just missed last year, losing to the Dodgers, but they beat out the Pirates by 1 1/2 games and took their season series 11-7.

Granted that the addition of Maury Wills, Juan Pizarro and Dennis Ribant should improve Pittsburgh, the Pirates still do not have a solid pitching staff. Atlanta closed with a rush in 1966, but their pitching also is questionable.

The Braves have the power to blast the league apart and the Pirates have the steady hitting and necessary tight defense, but pitching still is the big thing in baseball.

Back of the front three, we would toss St. Louis, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Cincinnati in a hat. Take your pick. Houston, Chicago and New York are the "other league" of the National although the Astros could get tough.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. San Francisco
2. Pittsburgh
3. Atlanta
4. St. Louis
5. Philadelphia
6. Los Angeles
7. Cincinnati
8. Houston
9. New York
10. Chicago

It will be up to Marichal, Gaylord Perry, Bobby Bolin, Lindy McDaniel and possibly Ray Sadecki to pitch the Giants to the pennant despite a weakness at shortstop. Mays and his younger outfield mates, plus Willie McCovey, Jim Ray Hart and Tom Haller must provide the bang.

If Wills can regain his old Dodger form and avoid leg injuries, he will make the Pirates' attack even more formidable. With Maury on base and men like Willie Stargell, Roberto Clemente and Donn Clendenon to drive him around, Pittsburgh should score plenty of runs.

The trick will be to keep the other club away from the plate. Much depends on the development of Tommie Sisk, Steve Blass and Woody Fryman. Pizarro, only 8-6 with the White Sox, could be the key.

Atlanta has the home run boon in Joe Torre, Hank Aaron, Mack Jones, Rico Carty and Felipe Alou. If Denis Menke and Woody Woodward firm up as a solid short-second combo, it will be easier for pitchers like Tony Cloninger, Ken Johnson, Denny Lemaster and the youngsters.

Without Koufax the Dodgers are just another ball club. They scramble for runs and should get more with Bob Bailey added to the attack. But they no longer have that big man to act as a stopper every fourth day.

season for the Black Panthers of Fayette County who have had little practice.

Circleville, on the other hand, has been working out in the junior high gymnasium since mid winter and has competed in numerous indoor events, at Ohio State University.

The Tigers won every event except the discus and the high jump. In the broad jump, the two-mile run, the 120-yard high hurdles, the 100-yard dash, the mile run, the 180-yard low hurdles and the 220-yard dash, Circleville took all three places.

RED AND BLACK cindermen also won both relay events with clockings of 1:40.1 in the 880 relay and 3:56 in the mile. Members of the 880 team were Larry Payne, Jim Samuel, Steve Dade and Tim Stonerock.

Running the mile were Tom Fletcher, Doug Smith, Larry Payne and Herron.

In addition to running on the winning relay team, Fletcher won the shot with a heave of 48 feet 5 inches, won the 440 yard dash in 56.6 and tied for first in the 220-yard dash with a time of 24.2.

Stonerock was the Tiger who crossed the finish line simultaneously with Fletcher. Stonerock also won the 100-yard dash in 10.8 and placed third in the shot.

Steve Dade won both hurdle events, posting a time of 17.2 in the high and 22.2 in the low.

Other first place efforts for the Tigers were in the pole vault where Bruce Tiger won with a 10-foot 6-inch effort, in the two mile where Mel Smith was clocked in 11:07.1, in the mile with a 5:04.5 clocking by Mike Martindill and in the 880-yard run with Gerald McCain notching the victory in 2:12.2.

The first real test of the Tigers strength in South Central Ohio League competition comes Thursday at Miami Trace. A triangular meet on the Panthers' cinders brings Wilmington and Circleville together.

Circleville, Wilmington and Washington C. H. are considered the powers in the league track competition this season.

Does Jack Nicklaus Have Mumps?

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Does he or doesn't he? Even his doctor doesn't know for sure.

The question involves Masters champ Jack Nicklaus and whether he has a case of the mumps.

"I don't know," Nicklaus said as he put the finishing touches on his preparations for the Masters Tournament that starts Thursday.

"I just don't know. My doctor doesn't know. No one knows. I was exposed to it about two weeks ago when I visited Gardner Dickinson. His kids have it."

"The incubation period isn't yet past. I may have it, but I don't think so. I don't think it's a problem."

Nicklaus, a three-time champion and the only man to score successive victories in this prestigious tournament, is favored to retain the famed green jacket that goes to the winner — if the mumps don't sideline him. Even without the health problem he's having difficulties.

"I'm not putting well, I'm not chipping well. I'm not driving well," he complained Tuesday after a practice round with former amateur champion Deane Beman.

Nicklaus said he shot "about a 73" over the 6,980-yard, par 72 Augusta National Course, and Beman had a 71. Gary Player said he didn't keep score, but his caddy said he had a 68.

Arnold Palmer said he had "about a 70 or 71. I'm playing pretty well and satisfied with my game."

Nicklaus said he was still having troubles but was driving a little better.

The 210-pound strongboy from Columbus, Ohio, as expected, named Palmer as his chief threat.

"I always figure if I can beat Arnie, I can win. And Arnie figures if he can beat me, he can win," Nicklaus said.

Palmer, the only four-time champion of the event, agreed. "I don't think there are any two people in the world who enjoy beating each other more than Jack and I do," said Palmer.

Between them, the two have won seven of the last nine Masters, and the last five in a row.

"It's a big hitters' course," explained Player, the little South African who won it in 1961. "You have to say that players like Nicklaus and Palmer have an advantage."

Other favorites in the field of 83 include U.S. Open champion Billy Casper, veteran Julius Boros, Doug Sanders and Gay Brewer.

Boros, two-time National Open champ, has won two tournaments already this season. Sanders was runner-up in last week's Greenboro Open, and Brewer has played exceptionally well all spring.

In addition to Player, top foreigners include lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand, a former British Open champ; Australian Bruce Crampton; Spanish Open champ Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina; former British Open champ Kel Nagle of Australia; George Knudson of Canada, who took individual honors in the last Canada Cup competition; Japanese Open champion Chen Ching-Po of Taiwan, and Hideyo Sugimoto of Japan.

The first two-foursome is scheduled to go off Thursday at 10 a.m., EST.

Hal Smith Is Pirates' Hitting Coach Choice

By MIKE RECHT

The slugging Pittsburgh Pirates, not satisfied with having the top hitter in the National League last season, have unveiled their candidate for the best hitting coach in the league. He is catcher Hal Smith, known more for his defensive abilities with the St. Louis Cardinals before a heart ailment sidelined him midway through the 1961 season.

Smith, who will be 36 on June 1, took bat in hand Tuesday and singled to start a three-run rally that stopped the Boston Red Sox 3-1 in an exhibition game at Fort Myers, Fla.

The club indicated he might see action at the plate and behind it during the season if the Pirates' catching staff does not improve on its disappointing spring performance.

It would be quite a comeback for Smith, who hit .238 in 5½ seasons with the Cardinals before coaching for them one season, managing in the minor leagues two years and coaching with the Pirates in 1965-66.

Pittsburgh called on him once before when injury struck its catching staff in 1965, but he went hitless in three at-bats in four games.

The Pirates, whose Matty Alou led the league at .342 last year, overlooked Jim Pagliaroni and Jesse Gonder for Smith, who opened the eighth inning with a single, and George Spriggs later followed with a two-run triple.

Tommy Sisk pitched one-hit ball for five innings for Pittsburgh, but Dennis Ribant finished up for the victory. Darrell Brandon hurled seven scoreless innings for Boston, giving up four infield hits, before the Pirates jumped on Dennis Bennett.

Baltimore relied on old-reliable Frank Robinson to touch off their attack that beat Washington 7-4 at Pompano Beach, Fla. He drove in three runs with a home run and a double. Dave McNally of the Orioles and Jim Hamman of the Senators each allowed one run in six inning stints.

Jim Northrup of Detroit brought home five runs, three with a triple in an 11-run third inning that crushed the New York Mets 14-1 in Lakeland, Fla. Mickey Lolich, Johnny Podres and Orlando Pena stopped the Mets, whose Ron Swoboda homered.

Gary Bell, Jack Kralick and John O'Donoghue stopped the San Francisco Giants on four hits and came away with a 1-0 triumph at Stockton, Calif. One of the Indians' seven hits was a run-scoring double by Larry Brown.

Don Sutton sparked with a three-hitter for seven innings while Jim Hickman and Al Ferrara homered and the Los Angeles Dodgers outslugged Houston 10-6 at Oklahoma City, Okla. Jim Wynn homered for the Astros.

Tim Laiton's bases loaded single broke a ninth-inning tie and handed Kansas City a 6-5 victory over Cincinnati at Bradenton, Fla.

The Chicago White Sox outthrew Minnesota 17-14 and outscored the Twins 12-7 at Sarasota, Fla. Tommie Agee hit his sixth homer of the spring for the White Sox and Tommie McCraw his first while Andy Kosco connected for the Twins.

The New York Yankees pelted Bob Bruce for four runs in the fifth inning and beat the Atlanta Braves 5-3 at West Palm Beach, Fla. Ray Barker's two-run hit was the big blow in the rally.

Bob Tolan's two-run single sparked a five-run seventh-inning uprising against Jim Bunning and sparked the Cardinals to a 6-4 triumph over Philadelphia at St. Petersburg, Fla., in a night game.

The Chicago Cubs and California Angels were rained out at Anaheim, Calif.

City Financial Obligations Are Reviewed by Auditor

Various financial problems the city can expect as part of next year's budget were outlined for Circleville Council Tuesday night by way of a letter from Auditor Marvane L. Turner.

The letter noted that primary concern should be devoted to the city's liability concerning Police and Firemen Pension Funds. This program, which falls under a state program, as drawn considerable criticism from Ohio communities where large liabilities are involved.

Circleville's total liability is $451,584, less available assets of $121,928.34. This leaves a balance of $329,655.66, plus four per cent interest, payable over a 20-year period.

In presenting her rundown on the city financial outlook, Mrs. Turner explained that it is time to consider needs for the 1968 budget. She requested all department heads to have their estimated needs submitted by June 1.

Her letter noted that liability to the pension funds will have to be paid from the city's general fund. She also gave notice that if the figure was not paid by the end of 1968 the city would be charged a full year's interest.

In addition to the employer's accrued liability in police and firemen pension funds, the city will be billed quarterly for the contribution on the police and fire current payrolls. The rate was given as 13.55 per cent of gross earnings for police and 13.13 per cent for the fire department.

The auditor stated in the letter that the city's contribution would have to be paid from the 3 mill levy. She added that the city appears in good shape for this year. Noting that the Budget Commission has estimated that Circleville will receive $9,300 in each fund during 1967. But council members were cautioned that if the city fell short of payments this also would have to come from the General Fund.

Total General Fund payroll for a year was listed at more than $190,000, which does not include overtime and automatic salary increases for both fire and police departments. The estimated increases were figured at $6,000 and was presented as a total of $196,000 for General Fund expenditures for payrolls alone.

Auditor Turner also stated that there was a need to transfer approximately $4,000 from the General Fund to the General Bond Retirement Fund to pay interest on Sewer District No. 2 bond issue.

The auditor's comments included a reminder that if the city is to proceed with the North Storm Sewer improvement program, in which Circleville's share amounts to an estimated $23,000, it appears that bonds will have to be sold within the 10-mill limitation. She said she doubted the city would have enough cash available to pay its share.

If bonds were sold then the sum sufficient to pay the interest and retire the bonds as they fall due will have to be taken from the General Fund Revenue and credited to the General Bond Retirement Fund, Mrs. Turner pointed out.

The auditor requested councilmen to keep the factors listed in mind as to what must be expected from the general fund for the next few years.

Attorney Appointed For Accused Xenian

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—A court-appointed attorney has been named for Herman F. Kinner, 55, Xenia, who will have a hearing next Tuesday in connection with the wounding of two men.

Kinner, held in lieu of $15,000 bond, was charged with carrying a concealed weapon and two counts of shooting with intent to wound in the shootings last Friday night of Leroy Hanning, 25, and William Jordan, 19, both of Spring Valley.

FORMER SNIPERS' NEST—This church steeple was used by Viet Cong snipers, then as an observation post by U.S. Marines during Operation Sierra in the Mo Duc area of Quang Ngai Province in South Vietnam.

Stockholm Also Becomes Modern

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Stockholm hasn't experienced war in almost 160 years, but at first glance you'd think this vibrant capital of the north must have come under bomber attack.

Great holes gaped toward the sky. Huge areas stand leveled or with buildings partly demolished. Many a graceful old building has vanished. You definitely get a boom-town feeling. Outwardly at least, change is on all sides.

It strikes you with the rhythmic clang of the pile drivers sinking steel shafts for the structures of the future and for the tunnels and overhead roads which will speed traffic in the new Stockholm.

The old-fashioned heart of the city around the Hay Market with its quaint up-and-down streets has given way to a new skyscraper center beckoning to the future. But in the sprawling central underground station and shopping center, you momentarily have the feeling of having slipped back to another age.

There youths gather with hair longer, dress more eccentric and appearance more unwashed and unkempt than this correspondent has experienced in any other European capital, London included.

By reputation it's in the subways where youngsters meet narcotic pushers, where gangs gather to think up some deviltry in an effort to avoid boredom, where the provoc — agitators — get steamed up and organize demonstrations against anything, but particularly against America's role in Vietnam.

Over the years, education, taxes and the gradual unfolding of the welfare state have operated as great levelers.

The Socialist way of thinking became imbedded since the Labor government first took office 37 years ago.

And Swedes have fallen more and more under the influence of the American supermarket.

Self-service is becoming the thing.

What's happening to the Swede's reputation for stiff, cold formality?

"Intellectuals, leftists and small fringe pressure groups feel they have to find causes these days," says one knowledgeable Swede. "In a way, I suppose, it's a form of purification. A reaction to the days of 25 years ago when Sweden stood on the sidelines.

"Meantime, we've grown plush with material comforts of all kinds and there may be a tinge of conscience about the neutral part we played in the last war. These people, for instance, feel Sweden should be doing more about the underdeveloped countries. We're probably at the bottom of the list there except for humanitarian work.

"They seem to feel that Sweden should react to American participation in the Vietnam conflict although they know nothing about war. They feel they have to react against (Francisco) Franco in Spain, (Antonio de Oliveira) Salazar in Portugal with its colonies, against the apartheid policy of South Africa.

None Injured In Auto Mishaps

Circleville police investigated two accidents early today in which no injuries were sustained to persons involved. Damage in both instances were minor, say police.

The auto of Linda J. Ross, 24, of Chillicothe and Velva M. Steele, 37, of Washington C. H. was involved in a minor mishap when their vehicles struck on E. Main St. 7:45 a. m.

Later city police were summoned to an accident at 8:14 a. m. on Park Ave. involving the autos of Frank Barnhill, 45, of 106 Park Ave. and Sonja L. Payne, 30, of 540 Ridgewood Dr.

The head-on collision occurred during parking efforts and minor damage resulted due to the slow speed by both cars upon impact. No injuries were reported, say police.

City Financial Obligations Are Reviewed by Auditor

Various financial problems the city can expect as part of next year's budget were outlined for Circleville Council Tuesday night by way of a letter from Auditor Marvene L. Turner.

The letter noted that primary concern should be devoted to the city's liability concerning Police and Firemen Pension Funds. This program, which falls under a state program, as drawn considerable criticism from Ohio communities where large liabilities are involved.

Circleville's total liability is $451,584, less available assets of $121,928.34. This leaves a balance of $329,655.66, plus four per cent interest, payable over a 20-year period.

In presenting her rundown on the city financial outlook, Mrs. Turner explained that it is time to consider needs for the 1968 budget. She requested all department heads to have their estimated needs submitted by June 1.

Her letter noted that liability to the pension funds will have to be paid from the city's general fund. She also gave notice that if the figure was not paid by the end of 1968 the city would be charged a full year's interest.

In addition to the employer's accrued liability in police and firemen pension funds, the city will be billed quarterly for the contribution on the police and fire current payrolls. The rate was given as 13.55 per cent of gross earnings for police and 13.13 per cent for the fire department.

The auditor stated in the letter that the city's contribution would have to be paid from the .3 mill levy. She added that the city appears in good shape for this year. Noting that the Budget Commission has estimated that Circleville will receive $9,300 in each fund during 1967.

But council members were cautioned that if the city fell short of payments this also would have to come from the General Fund.

Total General Fund payroll for a year was listed at more than $190,000, which does not include overtime and automatic salary increases for both fire and police departments. The estimated increases were figured at $6,000 and was presented as a total of $196,000 for General Fund expenditures for payrolls alone.

Auditor Turner also stated that there was a need to transfer approximately $4,000 from the General Fund to the General Bond Retirement Fund to pay interest on Sewer District No. 2 bond issue.

The auditor's comments included a reminder that if the city is to proceed with the North Storm Sewer improvement program, in which Circleville's share amounts to an estimated $23,000, it appears that bonds will have to be sold within the 10-mill limitation. She said she doubted the city would have enough cash available to pay its share.

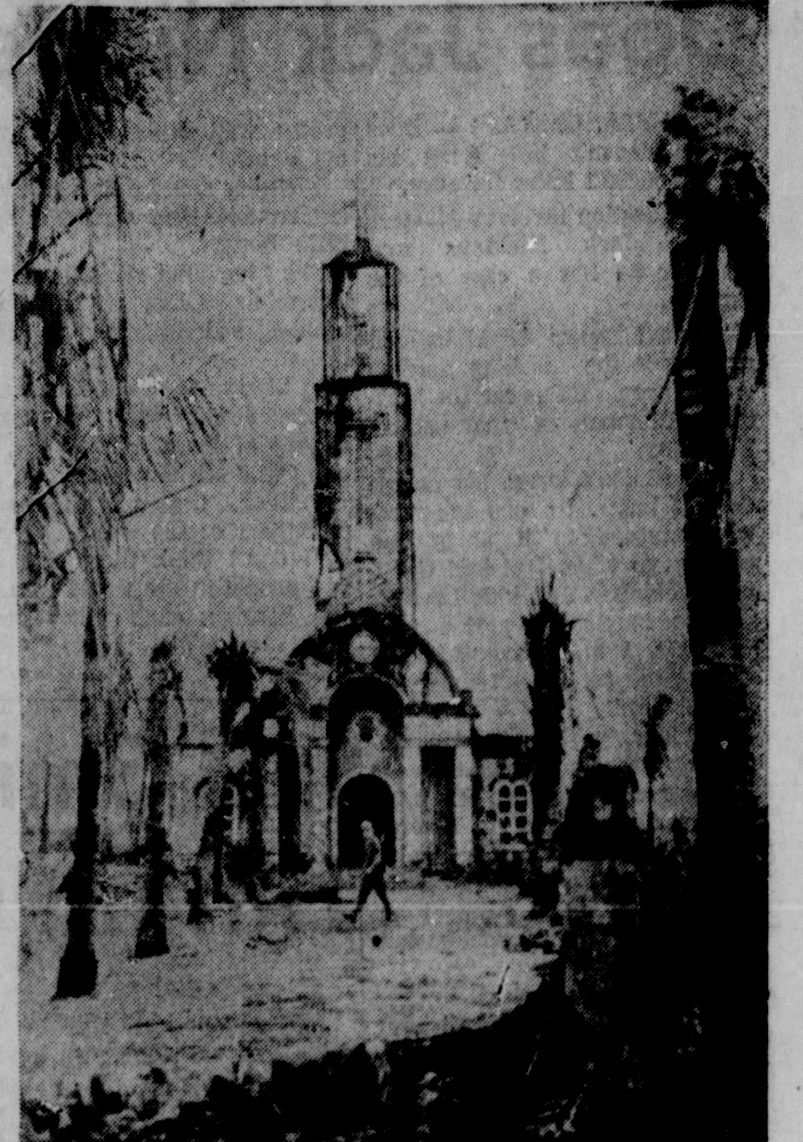

If bonds were sold then the sum sufficient to pay the interest and retire the bonds as they fall due will have to be taken from the General Fund Revenue and credited to the General Bond Retirement Fund, Mrs. Turner pointed out.

The auditor requested councilmen to keep the factors listed in mind as to what must be expected from the general fund for the next few years.

Attorney Appointed For Accused Xenian

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—A court-appointed attorney has been named for Herman F. Kinner, 55, Xenia, who will have a hearing next Tuesday in connection with the wounding of two men.

Stockholm Also Becomes Modern

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Stockholm hasn't experienced war in almost 160 years, but at first glance you'd think this vibrant capital of the north must have come under bomber attack.

Great holes gaped toward the sky. Huge areas stand leveled or with buildings partly demolished. Many a graceful old building has vanished. You definitely get a boom-town feeling. Outwardly at least, change is on all sides.

It strikes you with the rhythmic clang of the pile drivers sinking steel shafts for the structures of the future and for the tunnels and overhead roads which will speed traffic in the new Stockholm.

The old-fashioned heart of the city around the Hay Market with its quaint up-and-down streets has given way to a new skyscraper center beckoning to the future. But in the sprawling central underground station and shopping center, you momentarily have the feeling of having slipped back to another age.

There youths gather with hair longer, dress more eccentric and appearance more unwashed and unkempt than this correspondent has experienced in any other European capital, London included.

By reputation it's in the subways where youngsters meet narcotic pushers, where gangs gather to think up some deviltry in an effort to avoid boredom, where the provoc — agitators — get steamed up and organize demonstrations against anything, but particularly against America's role in Vietnam.

Over the years, education, laxes and the gradual unfolding of the welfare state have operated as great levelers.

The Socialist way of thinking became imbedded since the Labor government first took office 37 years ago.

And Swedes have fallen more and more under the influence of the American supermarket.

Self-service is becoming the thing. What's happening to the Swede's reputation for stiff, cold formality? "Intellectuals, leftists and
